Picnickers See 5 Children Die On Rail Trestle

Speeding Flyer Plows Into Texas Group; Only One Escapes

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Horrified picnickers saw a speeding train plow through five children trapped on a lofty railroad trestle Sunday. All five died.

A sixth youngster raced to safety at one end of the mile-long viaduct moments ahead of the passenger train, the Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited.

Engineer J. W. Euforth jammed on the emergency brakes in vain while scores of persons gathered for Easter picnics screamed for the four girls and one boy to jump.

The youngsters were caught about a fourth of a mile out on the bridge past a curve hiding the train's approach. At that point the viaduct towers 40 feet above the brushy bed of the Medina River.

Among those gathered below to eat their noon meal in a park were about 50 relatives of the children. The park is on the river banks at McDona, 15 miles southwest of here in South Texas.

THREE CHILDREN of Mrs. Paula Garza, San Antonio, and two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Ramirez, Laredo, Tex., were killed. Ramirez is Mrs. Garza's brother.

The dead: Diana Garza, 11; Louis Garza, 12; Laura Garza, 16; Anna Maria Ramirez, 13; and Norma Ramirez, 15. Norma died at a hospital several hours later. The others were killed outright.

Manuel Ramirez, 12, scrambled off one end of the trestle seconds ahead of the train.

"Several people yelled at the children when we saw the train coming," said Iderly Gutierrez, 27, a cousin from Corpus Christi.

"I shouted to them to jump, to get off the bridge. They were panicky. They started running; they didn't know what to do."

Engineer Euforth said the train was traveling 61 m.p.h. as it rounded the curve.

"The kids didn't have a chance," he said. "There was no place for them to go."

"As I straightened out I saw those kids on the track. I went into full emergency procedure at once. I must have gone one half to three quarters of a mile out on the viaduct."

Ramirez brought his family last Friday for a reunion at the Garza home, and other relatives joined them for the outing in the park.

Fired Counsel Chides Probe For Inactivity

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Schwartz says the House subcommittee that fired him as chief counsel has considered so far only matters he helped to develop.

"How long can they continue to run on borrowed steam?" he asked, referring to the House subcommittee investigating federal regulatory agencies. He was questioned on a television show.

The subcommittee concluded last week the first phase of its hearings, dealing with allegations of misconduct by members of the Federal Communications Commission. No date has been set for new hearings.

Schwartz said he hopes the subcommittee will conduct a public inquiry into possible White House pressure on the agencies. Without giving details, he said subcommittee files contain evidence that presidential aide Sherman Adams took an interest in several cases pending before the agencies.

There was no immediate comment from Adams.

The subcommittee fired Schwartz as its chief counsel last Feb. 10 after a dispute over his handling of the investigation. He in turn charged that some members were seeking to turn the probe into a whitewash.

Tax Cut Decision May Hinge on Voter Preference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional sentiment may be veering away from cutting taxes. The balance on the issue could be tipped either way by what congressmen learn in talks with voters.

Most Senate and House members, home for an extended Easter vacation, will be able to sound out public opinion on tax reduction and other proposals for reversing the recession.

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.), who favors trimming both income and excise levies, forecast the senators and representatives will return next Monday anxious to start cutting taxes.

"The quickest and most effective way of fighting the recession is through a tax cut of about six billion dollars," Douglas said.

But Sen. Mansfield of Montana, acting Senate Democratic leader, said he detected a "definite trend away from tax reductions, although I personally think the right kind" of cuts would give the economy a needed lift.

FINANCIER Bernard Baruch's opposition to tax reduction appeared to have had considerable influence on congressional thinking. He proposed going in the other direction.

"If we're going to have a tax cut," Ives said, "I think it should be a tax cut which will stimulate business and employment."

By this, he said he meant a drop in excise taxes.

SEN. SMATHERS (D-Fla.) said his proposal to repeal a 3 per cent excise tax on freight would be "the quickest way to bring about a general price cut on nearly all of our consumer goods, and attack the recession head-on."

Secretary of Labor Mitchell said President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and he are on record for a tax cut if and when it is necessary.

"Certainly there is no indication right now that it is necessary," Mitchell added.

The labor secretary noted that March employment figures are due out Tuesday. He said, "I think I can safely predict that employment for March will show a higher figure than that of February, and that unemployment will not change much from February."

The official figures for February showed 5,200,000 persons out of work. Mitchell said 62 million workers now have jobs.

Box Is Found In Culvert

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department yesterday investigated the discovery of an empty money box which was found in a culvert on Route 762 west of Route 23.

The battered money container was found by Weldon White. Deputy John Wolford said it appeared to be a box taken from the inside of a larger safe.

Deputy Wolford said ownership is undetermined. The box weighs about 200 pounds, he added.

The officer said the box apparently was opened with a heavy instrument before it was discarded. It was found in about three feet of water.

Area Woman's Death Ruled Suicide in Ross County

Mrs. Ethel G. Umsted, 54, Pickaway-Ross County line, mother of two children, committed suicide at 7 a. m. according to the Ross County Sheriff's Department. Ross County Coroner C. D. Leggett, ruled death by suicide at 9:30 in Chillicothe Hospital.

Mrs. Umsted was discovered by her 15-year-old daughter and her father, Oscar A. Olson. She was found lying unconscious in the rear seat of a 1951 car. A vacuum cleaner hose was attached to the tailpipe and ran to the rear window with the car motor running, deputies said.

Daughter Janice found a note on the kitchen table which told her not to come to the garage until she had notified "grandpa". Together they found Mrs. Umsted and attempted to call for help but the phone line was cut, according to the Sheriff's report.

They took Mrs. Umsted to the hospital in the death vehicle. Along the way they stopped at State Highway Patrol Post 71, Ross County, and were escorted to the hospital.

DOCTORS Wood and L. T. Franklin applied the respirator at 9:15 a. m., and the coroner pronounced her dead shortly after.

According to investigating deputies Arthur E. Wilbur and William A. Patrick, Mrs. Umsted apparently was despondent over the recent death of her husband, Edward F., who died January 24 of a heart attack.

Mrs. Umsted also is survived by a son, Edward, 10. Funeral arrangements, in charge of the Hill Funeral Home, Kingston, are incomplete.

News in Brief More Britons Join Protest Of H-Bomb Test

READING, England (AP) — Nearly 2,000 Britons got up early today to swell the ranks of an anti-H-bomb procession winding its way along a highway near here.

The column, nearly 1,100 strong when it swung into this industrial town, had more than 2,500 men, women and children when it left. More than 1,000 people came down on early trains from London to devote part of their Easter to this crusade.

To the "Ban the Bomb" marching song played on guitars and washboards, the mile-long column left Reading's main square for the British nuclear weapons research station at Aldermaston.

The four-day, 48-mile march began Friday in London's Trafalgar Square. It was to end this afternoon with a rally in an Aldermaston field.

Most of the cranks and known Communists have dropped out of the march, leaving Socialists, pacifists and professed nonpolitical citizens.

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea today said the withdrawal of the first 40,000 Chinese Communist troops was completed Saturday.

Pyeongyang radio reported three Chinese divisions had crossed the Yalu River border.

The Chinese have said 80,000 troops, or six divisions, would leave North Korea between March 15 and April 30. Peiping in February pledged to pull out all Chinese forces — estimated at 350,000 by South Korea — by the end of the year.

IWAKUNI, Japan (AP) — Navy vessels continued a search today for six missing men who were aboard a U.S. seaplane that crashed, burned and sank Sunday three miles offshore.

A Japanese cargo boat picked up 2 bodies and 3 survivors of the 11 crew members soon after the crash.

The twin-engine P5M Martin of the 48th Seaplane Antisubmarine Squadron, based at San Diego, Calif., was on a deployment tour. It crashed shortly after take-off at the Iwakuni Marine Corps seadrome.

Negroes Plead For 'Justice' In Courtroom

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — About 2,500 Negroes held an Easter day rally at the state capitol protesting what a spokesman described as a pattern of injustice in the courtroom.

City police and state law enforcement officers were stationed in the crowd. No incidents were reported.

The Negroes joined in an appeal against what the Rev. Martin Luther King referred to as "the constant miscarriage of justice in our courts."

The meeting was arranged after the electrocution of Jeremiah Reeves Jr., 22-year-old Negro jazz drummer who was put to death March 28 for the rape of a white woman. He was also indicted on charges of assaulting five other white women but was tried in only one of the cases.

King said the Reeves' execution "is but one incident in the long and desolate night of court injustice."

"Here Negroes are robbed openly with little hope of redress. We are fined and jailed often in defiance of law. Right or wrong, a Negro's word has little weight against a white opponent's."

King said it was the severity of Reeves' penalty that aroused the Negro community, not the question of his guilt or innocence.

He said white men accused of raping Negro girls are rarely ever punished and are never given the death penalty or even a life sentence.

Cuban Chief Says Rebels To Be Captured Bit by Bit

HAVANA (AP) — President Fulgencio Batista's army today claimed it had whipped one big contingent of Fidel Castro's rebels and was pursuing it and another major rebel band in the mountains of eastern Cuba.

The army also claimed it had shot down a foreign C46 transport plane bringing arms to be dropped to Castro. The announcement said the plane crashed and burned and the crew was killed. But the country where the plane originated and the identities of the plane crew were not announced.

The general staff said its forces had defeated a large rebel outfit headed by Paul Castro, the rebel chief's brother, which had been operating along the northern coast of Oriente province.

The rebel group was reported scattered, forced back into the Sierra Maestra and "isolated." The communiqué said 7 rebels were killed and more than 30 wounded or captured. Earlier Batista's forces claimed more than two dozen rebels were killed Sunday in Oriente.

The army had said Saturday it had isolated Fidel Castro and another big group of rebels in the mountains, but rebel sources shrugged this off. They said Castro had been "sealed off" in the Sierra Maestra since he began his revolt 16 months ago.

The army said its men were pursuing both rebel groups.

Batista, visited by newsmen at his heavily guarded farm outside Havana, said the army's strategy was to decimate the rebel ranks bit by bit.

"The army strategy is not to go barging into the mountains and killing a lot of innocent people," he declared, "but to isolate the rebels and capture them all."

Although Castro was still at large, the total war he was supposed to have begun two days ago still had not materialized.

Batista told newsmen that if Castro is seized alive, "there will be a fair trial." He added, however, that he could not give any guarantee that the rebel leader would not be gunned down first.

"Castro has been photographed killing persons and signing death warrants," Batista continued. "A person like that is not a true Christian and not fit to head a nation."

Thirty or more rebels were reported killed Sunday in the wreckage.

Engineer Leon J. Shack, 62, and his fireman, Furman E. Spence, 62, both of Portsmouth, were killed when their eastbound train, headed for a siding, was struck by the westbound freight.

Ralph Hunter, 48, of Portsmouth, brakeman aboard the westbound train, suffered extensive burns and was taken to a Cincinnati hospital where aides said he is not expected to live.

Four crewmen suffered less serious injuries in the crash and four others were unhurt. William Mylenbush, 44, South Beloit, Ill., representative of a General Electric locomotive factory, who was aboard the westbound freight, suffered head and body cuts.

Railroad officials said they have not firmly established the cause of the crash, but said track signals were apparently working.

Thief Leaves Good Advice for Victim

DALLAS (AP) — Police figure H. E. Greenwell got some pretty good advice from a thief who stole the four hubcaps off his car.

They disappeared two weeks ago, and an insurance adjuster already had replaced them before Greenwell discovered a paper sack in his yard. Inside were the hubcaps and this note: "Surprise! To prevent the occurrence of visits such as mine in the future, may I suggest: 1. Keep your car in the garage. 2. Keep doors, windows and glove compartments locked. 3. Gas can be stolen easily and silently."

3 Ohio Men Aboard Capital Airlines Ship

Four-Engine Viscount Plunges 2,300 Feet Short of Runway

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — A Capital Airlines Viscount plane crashed and burned in a spring snowfall Sunday night, killing all 47 persons aboard.

The four-engine plane slammed into a muddy field about 2,300 feet short of a runway at the Tri-City Airport. The airport serves Midland, Saginaw and Bay City.

Bodies were scattered across a wide area. Charred bodies were found in the shattered wreckage. Ohio passengers aboard the plane were:

Curtis Warren, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warren, of Minford.

Joe Girlando of Akron, record-setting athlete at Case Institute last year.

J. B. Shoop of Columbus.

Warner Law, owner of the farm on which the plane crashed, said: "There was no chance of anyone getting out. The plane came in hard. It didn't fall. It ran into the ground."

CONTROL TOWER officials said it was windy and snow was falling as the plane approached for a landing at 11:15 p. m. Visibility was three miles with a 900-foot ceiling.

Nelson Girardin, who had stopped at the airport administration building with his family to watch the plane land, said one minute the plane's lights were barely visible through the rain and snow; the next minute they abruptly headed earthward. A second later there was a blinding flash of orange flame spurring nearly 100 feet in the air, followed by a muffled explosion, he said.

Girardin said the plane apparently landed almost squarely on its nose, then flipped over, a flaming mass of wreckage.

There was some confusion whether the plane exploded and crashed, or crashed and exploded.

Odd Mishaps Mar Weekend For Ohicans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A train crash . . . a fall . . . a parachute jump . . . a gun that accidentally fired. These were the causes of five deaths during Ohio's Easter weekend that dimmed somewhat the news spotlight on eight fatalities.

The head-on collision of two freight trains in Brown County killed two Portsmouth crewmen, Leon J. Shack, 62, and F. E. Spence, 62.

Three men bailed out of a plane 6,000 feet over Youngstown in a practice jump. One man's parachute failed to open. He was Imre Horvath, 22.

A 13-year-old boy, Stephen Holzapfel, was cleaning his father's gun in their suburban home near Columbus. The gun went off, fatally wounding him in the head. He was taken to the hospital where his father, a doctor, was on duty. A Cincinnati father was examining a prospective new home when a board broke. He and his two children he was holding dropped 10 feet. One, a 20-month-old boy, James Barnes, died. The father and other child were not hurt.

On the traffic scene, what started out as a joyous Easter Sunday for a Dayton family turned into a tragedy. The family was delivering 500 candy Easter eggs to a school for mentally deficient when their car crashed after a tire blow-out. The father, Arthur Pettit, 53, and his son, Jimmie, 8, were killed. The mother and a daughter were hospitalized with injuries.

B Vitamin May Hold Key To Cancer Cure in Smokers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If smoking causes lung cancer there may be a way of treating or even preventing it with one of the B vitamins.

Tests on mice already are under way here. The first results will be reported probably in June. If they are favorable, there still will be a long jump from mouse to man, but it will be worth a good try.

This first hopeful turn in the long controversial story of cigarettes and lung cancer came in a meeting of cancer researchers and science writers. The meeting was one of several across the country sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Benjamin F. Freedlander and a colleague, Frederic A. French, disclosed they were testing the ability of a chemical known as 3-acetyl pyridine, or 3-AP for short, to cause a type of lung malignancy in mice.

And at the same time they are testing the ability of niacin to prevent or counteract any cancerous process which may be started by 3-AP.

There is no proof yet that 3-AP causes cancer but Dr. Freedlander reported circumstantial evidence which puts it under suspicion.

Dr. Freedlander demonstrated that mice kept on a niacin-deficient diet and given a cancer-causing chemical developed twice as many malignant growths as mice which got a normal diet plus the cancer chemical.

Some cigarette smokers already are taking niacin on the strength of the information so far developed. Dr. Freedlander said there was no indication yet that it would do any good but added that there is no reason to believe it would be harmful.

Mansfield said he thinks the views of Baruch and Secretary of the Treasury Anderson have had a lot to do with what Mansfield said is a cooling of Republican and Democratic ardor for tax slashing. Anderson is known to favor a go-cautiously course.

Sen. Ives (R-N.Y.) cited Baruch's testimony in opposing tax cuts at this time. Both Ives and Sen. Javits (R-N.Y.) said cuts could be inflationary and would not do much to swell purchasing power.

"A tax cut of a kind being talked about," Javits said, "would give the individual somewhere between $40 and $70 to put in his pocket this year. Now he isn't going to go out and buy a house or a car with that small amount."

Ives said a temporary income tax cut would not put more money in circulation because, he said, most people would save the amount they gain, not spend it.

"If we're going to have a tax cut," Ives said, "I think it should be a tax cut which will stimulate business and employment."

By this, he said he meant a drop in excise taxes.

SEN. SMATHERS (D-Fla.) said his proposal to repeal a 3 per cent excise tax on freight would be "the quickest way to bring about a general price cut on nearly all of our consumer goods, and attack the recession head-on."

Secretary of Labor Mitchell said President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon and he are on record for a tax cut if and when it is necessary.

"Certainly there is no indication right now that it is necessary," Mitchell added.

The labor secretary noted that March employment figures are due out Tuesday. He said, "I think I can safely predict that employment for March will show a higher figure than that of February, and that unemployment will not change much from February."

The official figures for February showed 5,200,000 persons out of work. Mitchell said 62 million workers now have jobs.

Box Is Found In Culvert

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department yesterday investigated the discovery of an empty money box which was found in a culvert on Route 762 west of Route 23.

The battered money container was found by Weldon White. Deputy John Wolford said it appeared to be a box taken from the inside of a larger safe.

Deputy Wolford said ownership is undetermined. The box weighs about 200 pounds, he added.

The officer said the box apparently was opened with a heavy instrument before it was discarded. It was found in about three feet of water.

Leading Economist, 79, Dies in Boston Home

BOSTON (AP)—Clyde O. Ruggles, 79, nationally known economist and professor emeritus at Harvard, died Sunday in his home.

He was professor of public utility management and regulation at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration until 1948.

Since retiring from Harvard, he taught at Ohio State in 1948-49 and Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, from 1949-53.

Ben, Winnie Missing

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Winston Churchill was reported stolen Sunday from the wax museum of the Steel Pier. He was in illustrious company. Benjamin Franklin was missing, too.

Mrs. Ethel G. Umsted, 54, Pickaway-Ross County line, mother of two children, committed suicide at 7 a. m. according to the Ross County Sheriff's Department. Ross County Coroner C. D. Leggett, ruled death by suicide at 9:30 in Chillicothe Hospital.

Mrs. Umsted was discovered by her 15-year-old daughter and her father, Oscar A. Olson. She was found lying in a garage under the rear seat of a 1951 car. A vacuum cleaner hose was attached to the tailpipe and ran to the rear window with the car motor running, deputies said.

Daughter Janice found a note on the kitchen table which told her not to come to the garage until she had notified "grandpa". Together they found Mrs. Umsted and attempted to call for help but the phone line was cut, according to the Sheriff's report.

They took Mrs. Umsted to the hospital in the death vehicle. Along the way they stopped at State Highway Patrol Post 71, Ross County, and were escorted to the hospital.

DOCTORS Wood and L. T. Franklin applied the respirator until 9:15 a. m., and the coroner pronounced her dead shortly after.

According to investigating deputies Arthur E. Wilbur and William A. Patrick, Mrs. Umsted apparently was despondent over the recent death of her husband, Edward F., who died January 24 of a heart attack.

Mrs. Umsted also is survived by a son, Edward, 10. Funeral arrangements, in charge of the Hill Funeral Home, Kingston, are incomplete.

More Britons Join Protest Of H-Bomb Test

READING, England (AP)—Nearly 2,000 Britons got up early today to swell the ranks of an anti-H-bomb procession wending its way along a highway near here.

The column, nearly 1,100 strong when it swung into this industrial town, had more than 2,500 men, women and children when it left.

More than 1,000 people came down on early trains from London to devote part of their Easter to this crusade.

To the "Ban the Bomb" marching song played on guitars and washboards, the mile-long column left Reading's main square for the British nuclear weapons research station at Aldermaston.

The four-day, 48-mile march began Friday in London's Trafalgar Square. It was to end this afternoon with a rally in an Aldermaston field.

Most of the cranks and known Communists have dropped out of the march, leaving Socialists, pacifists and professed nonpolitical citizens.

TOKYO (AP)—North Korea today said the withdrawal of the first 40,000 Chinese Communist troops was completed Saturday.

Pyeongyang radio reported three Chinese divisions had crossed the Yalu River border.

The Chinese have said 80,000 troops, or six divisions, would leave North Korea between March 15 and April 30, Peiping in February pledged to pull out all Chinese forces—estimated at 350,000 by South Korea—by the end of the year.

IWAKUNI, Japan (AP)—Navy vessels continued a search today for six missing men who were aboard a U.S. seaplane that crashed, burned and sank Sunday three miles offshore.

A Japanese cargo boat picked up 2 bodies and 3 survivors of the 11 crew members soon after the crash.

The twin-engine P5M Martin of the 48th Seaplane Antisubmarine Squadron, based at San Diego, Calif., was on a deployment tour. It crashed shortly after take-off at the Iwakuni Marine Corps seadrome.

Negroes Plead For 'Justice' In Courtroom

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—About 2,500 Negroes held an Easter day rally at the state capitol protesting what a spokesman described as a pattern of injustice in the courtroom.

City police and state law enforcement officers were stationed in the crowd. No incidents were reported.

The Negroes joined in an appeal against what the Rev. Martin Luther King referred to as "the constant miscarriage of justice in our courts."

The meeting was arranged after the electrocution of Jeremiah Reeves Jr., 22-year-old Negro jazz drummer who was put to death March 28 for the rape of a white woman. He was also indicted on charges of assaulting five other white women but was tried in only one of the cases.

King said the Reeves' execution "is but one incident in the long and desolate night of court injustice."

"Here Negroes are robbed openly with little hope of redress. We are fined and jailed often in defiance of law. Right or wrong, a Negro's word has little weight against a white opponent's."

King said it was the severity of Reeves' penalty that aroused the Negro community, not the question of his guilt or innocence.

He said white men accused of raping Negro girls are rarely ever punished and are never given the death penalty or even a life sentence.

Cuban Chief Says Rebels To Be Captured Bit by Bit

HAVANA (AP)—President Fulgencio Batista's army today claimed it had whipped one big contingent of Fidel Castro's rebels and was pursuing it and another major rebel band in the mountains of eastern Cuba.

The army also claimed it had shot down a foreign C46 transport plane bringing arms to be dropped to Castro. The announcement said the plane crashed and burned and the crew was killed. But the country where the plane originated and the identities of the plane crew were not announced.

The general staff said its forces had defeated a large rebel outfit headed by Paul Castro, the rebel chief's brother, which had been operating along the northern coast of Oriente province.

The rebel group was reported scattered, forced back into the Sierra Maestra and "isolated." The communique said 7 rebels were killed and more than 30 wounded or captured. Earlier Batista's forces claimed more than two dozen rebels were killed Sunday in Oriente.

The army had said Saturday it had isolated Fidel Castro and another big group of rebels in the mountains, but rebel sources shrugged this off. They said Castro had been "sealed off" in the Sierra Maestra since he began his revolt 16 months ago.

The army said its men were pursuing both rebel groups.

Batista, visited by newsmen at his heavily guarded farm outside Havana, said the army's strategy was to decimate the rebel ranks bit by bit.

"The army strategy is not to go barging into the mountains and killing a lot of innocent people," he declared, "but to isolate the rebels and capture them all."

Although Castro was still at large, the total war he was supposed to have begun two days ago still had not materialized.

Batista told newsmen that if Castro is seized alive, "there will be a fair trial." He added, however, that he could not give any guarantee that the rebel leader would not be gunned down first.

"Castro has been photographed killing persons and signing death warrants," Batista continued. "A person like that is not a true Christian and not fit to head a nation."

Thirty or more rebels were reported killed Sunday.

Engineer Leon J. Shack, 62, and his fireman, Furman E. Spence, 62, both of Portsmouth, were killed when their eastbound train, headed for a siding, was struck by the westbound freight.

Ralph Hunter, 48, of Portsmouth, brakeman aboard the westbound train, suffered extensive burns and was taken to a Cincinnati hospital where aides said he is not expected to live.

Four crewmen suffered less serious injuries in the crash and four others were unhurt. William Mylenbush, 44, South Beloit, Ill., a representative of a General Electric locomotive factory, who was aboard the westbound freight, suffered head and body cuts.

Railroad officials said they have not firmly established the cause of the crash, but said track signals were apparently working.

Thief Leaves Good Advice for Victim

DALLAS (AP)—Police figure H. E. Greenwell got some pretty good advice from a thief who stole the four hubcaps off his car.

They disappeared two weeks ago, and an insurance adjuster already had replaced them before Greenwell discovered a paper sack in his yard. Inside were the hubcaps and this note:

"Surprise! To prevent the occurrence of visits such as mine in the future, may I suggest: 1. Keep your car in the garage. 2. Keep doors, windows and glove compartments locked. 3. Gas can be stolen easily and silently."

Dr. Benjamin F. Freedlander and a colleague, Frederic A. French, disclosed they were testing the ability of a chemical known as 2-acetyl pyridine, or ported killed since Sunday morning. Nearly 100 have been listed as killed in Oriente since April 1, while the army has reported only a handful of casualties on its side.

Rebel circles predicted Castro might call his often threatened general strike this week. But in the western province of Pinar del Rio the rebels issued bulletins telling workers to stay on the job "until you are further advised."

Castro claims he has only to give the word to send 50,000 young revolutionaries surging into the streets in a shooting war. As time passed with no action, however, the rebel chief's own sympathizers began to grumble.

Nelson Girardin, who had stopped at the airport administration building with his family to watch the plane land, said one minute the plane's lights were barely visible through the rain and snow; the next minute they abruptly headed earthward. A second later there was a blinding flash of orange flame spurting nearly 100 feet in the air, followed by a muffled explosion, he said.

Girardin said the plane apparently landed almost squarely on its nose, then flipped over, a flaming mass of wreckage.

There was some confusion whether the plane exploded and crashed, or crashed and exploded. Ronald A. Wenzel, 24, living at

Odd Mishaps Mar Weekend For Ohicans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A train crash . . . a fall . . . a parachute jump . . . a gun that accidentally fired. These were the causes of five deaths during Ohio's Easter weekend that dimmed somewhat the news spotlight on eight traffic fatalities.

The head-on collision of two freight trains in Brown County killed two Portsmouth crewmen, Leon J. Shack, 62, and F. E. Spence, 62.

Three men bailed out of a plane 6,000 feet over Youngstown in a practice jump. One man's parachute failed to open. He was Imre Horvath, 22.

A 13-year-old boy, Stephen Holzapfel, was cleaning his father's gun in their suburban home near Columbus. The gun went off, fatally wounding him in the head. He was taken to the hospital where his father, a doctor, was on duty. A Cincinnati father was examining a prospective new home when a board broke. He and his two children he was holding dropped 10 feet. One, a 20-month-old boy, James Barnes, died. The father and other child were not hurt.

Drivers Fined, Jailed in Court

Columbus Men Gets $200, Fifteen Days

Two motorists accused of driving while their licenses were under revocation and suspension appeared in Circleville Municipal Court today.

Scott L. Fugate, 34, Columbus, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 15 days in jail on the revocation charge.

According to the State Highway Patrol it was Fugate's second arrest for driving under revocation. Officers said he also is wanted in Sandusky for walking away from a jail work detail in that city.

Willard Reed, 52, Mingo St., was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail for driving under suspension. Arrested by the State Highway Patrol, he also was fined $10 and costs for driving left of center.

OTHER drivers arrested by the State Highway Patrol were:

Robert H. Hunter, 42, Columbus; $20 and costs for speeding at 80 miles per hour.

Thomas B. Aker, 24, Whitehall, $20 and costs for speeding at 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

John Barnes, 35, Columbus; $15 and costs for speeding at 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

George Zeigler Jr., 20, Pittsburg, Pa., was fined $10 and costs for operating a motor vehicle with expired license plates. He was arrested by city police.

Woman Is Held For Jury Action

Anna Hoffman, 32, of 618 Maplewood Ave., was bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury today on an accusation of driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Appearing before Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb, Mrs. Hoffman pleaded innocent to the charge. Bond was set at $200.

The court also fined her $25 and costs for no operator's license. She was arrested by city police following an accident last week on N. Court St. near the Hargus Creek bridge.

Businessmen Wonder What April Holds

Construction Hirings Expected To Climb; Other Layoffs Due

By WALTER BREDE JR.
NEW YORK (AP)—Which way U.S. business in April?

For most Americans last week, the picture was anything but clear.

Job hunters could expect increased hiring in home building, road construction and projects connected with national defense.

But in most manufacturing industries—and in mining and transportation—the outlook was for layoffs and retrenchments beyond those already announced in March.

Taking the economy as a whole, signs of the usual spring upturn were conspicuous by their absence.

Here and there you could find exceptions.

With the railroads pulling in their horns all over the lot, the Milwaukee Road confidently placed a 12-million-dollar order for 1,150 new freight cars.

Caterpillar Tractor Co. re-instated a full five-day week at its plants in Peoria, Joliet, Milwaukee and San Leandro, Calif.

American Machine & Foundry Co. stepped up production of automatic pinpointers for bowling alleys from 600 to 800 a month.

These were isolated cases. Most of the key indicators at the start of April—described by Labor Secretary Mitchell as the month to watch—still pointed lower.

More than half the steel industry's productive capacity stood idle last week. Output was estimated by the American Iron & Steel Institute at 1,298,000 ingot tons. Even allowing for absenteeism on Good Friday, this was the smallest for any strike-free week since 1949.

After chugging along in second gear for most of the winter, the auto industry shifted into low. New car production sagged to 66,000, lowest for any normal operating week since 1952. In the same week last year Detroit rolled out more than 130,000 passenger models.

With sales sagging and costs pinching, some companies resorted to pay cuts. The Pennsylvania Railroad ordered a 10 per cent reduction in the pay of all employees earning more than $10,000 a year.

Easter business in the nation's stores was disappointing. That's the latest word from merchants who until recently had hoped for an 11th-hour upsurge in sales.

Egg Hunt Gives Sponsors a Lesson

TULSA (AP)—The Tulsa Junior Chamber of Commerce staged its first Easter egg hunt Sunday and learned something about next year's hunt.

The members hid some 5,500 eggs in a city park and sat back waiting for the hunt at 3 p. m. A larger than expected crowd arrived by 2:30 p. m.

At 2:40 an unidentified youngster gave a loud blast on a toy police whistle.

Five minutes later, after a wild scramble, the Easter egg hunt was over. One Jaycee official said a police siren will start the hunt next year.

World Wonders Why Star Dated Underworld Figure

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The slaying of Johnny Stompanato by Lana Turner's 14-year-old daughter must have most of Hollywood—and the world—asking today?

How can a known underworld figure become the boy friend of a top movie star?

"It's all my fault. It's all my fault," one close friend quoted Lana on her daughter Cheryl's predicament.

Is it?

Four times married and divorced, with numerous boy friends in between, the 38-year-old actress saw in handsome Johnny excitement and new kicks.

It may be hard for people unfamiliar with the town to comprehend, but Hollywood can be dull for movie queens.

Many a beautiful doll has to sit at home nights for the simple reason there is a drastic shortage of eligible men.

Sexy Barbara Nichols, an unmarried actress who came here from New York, summed it up: "Sure, I'd like to get married, but every interesting man I've met out here is either married or spoken for."

Even such an international beauty as Zsa Zsa Gabor has been escorted to recent Hollywood functions by her press agent. One publicity man reveals that one of the biggest chores of his job is lining up dates for clients world famous for their beauty.

Lana met the 32-year-old Stompanato soon after her rift with Lex Barker, former screen Tarzan who was her latest husband.

Beverly Hills Police Chief Clinton Anderson quoted her: "My first contact with John was a telephone call I received from him about a year ago. I didn't recall ever having met him or having seen him before, but he mentioned mutual friends."

"After that he called at intervals for two or three weeks, wanting to come over for a drink or a chat. He kept pestering, and I finally accepted a date with him."

Los Angeles police intelligence reports on known underworld figures say this about Stompanato: "He acquaints himself with females of wealth. He courts them, and after he is deeply involved, borrows money and never repays the loan."

Meeting Stompanato was easy for Lana. Getting rid of him was not.

That's what led to the violent arguments climaxed Friday night in the stabbing.

Cheryl, fearful for her mother's life after hearing threats from Stompanato, strode up to him and rammed a brand-new kitchen knife, razor sharp, into his right side.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am just an unkempt, nondescript middle aged man, one of the masses that indwell the cities of "civilization." It seems only yesterday that I was young and very handsome and a great success with women.

I always had a contempt for religion and still have, even though I now know that there are fundamental moral laws. I have a certain intelligence and the ability to sell myself socially and outwit others. So, early in life, I formulated the notion that women were put on this earth to be my pastime.

Oh yes, I was very smart. I took every precaution to see that I would never have to accept any accountability and I didn't slip anywhere, either.

Now, 25 years after the beginning of my career of exploiting women, I can see that it is impossible, in the very nature of things, to escape retribution for one's sins. No matter how lucky you are, seemingly, during the years of sowing wild oats, no matter how deft at eluding responsibilities, you will not escape the penalty.

You cannot see the hand of the Omnipotent Power at work; but you know that He has the finger on you—and you know why. You cannot argue your way out. Your world becomes a mockery; each door in turn closes in your face, as you move towards it.

Years from now there will be other outcasts from happiness, who today are only boys and girls of the "rock and roll" set, full of youthful vitality and ardor, who think that the life of amorous delights will never end.

Yes, kids; it seems like only yesterday that I was young. But also it seems like a hundred million years ago—years that are gone beyond recovery.

Go to church, young ones, and try to persuade your clergy go talk in 20th century language, so that you will learn the Eternal Verities, whilst you still have a chance.

DEAR A.R.: Well, it would be interesting to know what series of encounters, or what mishaps, have brought you recently to a realization (or conviction) that nobody cares a hoot about your welfare. Nobody, that is, who has ever known you on a familiar footing.

Somewhere in the world there are persons, of course, who are channels of God's mysterious compassion and searching concern for the soul gone astray—and they would care about your needs, even now. But for the present you are feeling the kickback of what you've dishied out, over the years—namely, blunt rejection, when love was sought, or help entreated, or real acceptance longed for.

However, don't despair. While there is life, there is cause to hope. And the fact that a glimmer of light is beginning to dawn in your consciousness; that you are able to see the wreck you've made of your chances, cheating yourself irrevocably to the extent that you've cheated others in the area of interpersonal relations, suggests that you may yet salvage the future. Your whole life needn't go down the drain.

God's grace is working in the soul of a man, giving him another chance, when that man becomes aware, humbly and candidly, of his appalling misuse of life's potentials, and the tawdry futility of trying to outwit the moral law that envelops the human species. If the errant man will cooperate with grace, by turning over a new leaf and repenting the "old Adam," he may become a new creature—by listening divine help in living rightly.

In which case his experience chances. Circumstances develop that restore in him "the years that the locusts have eaten"—in terms of granting him wisdom, peace of heart, and opportunities to help mankind. So, it's not enough for you simply to warn the kids against your past mistakes. You've got to get on with the struggle of moral growth.

M.H.

TV Producer Follows His Own Desires

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"When I was in the paratroops during the war, I used to stand at the door of the plane before a jump and say to myself, 'What am I doing here?' From that point on, I decided I was only going to do what I really wanted to do."

This comes from Albert McCleery, dynamic executive producer of NBC's Matinee Theater. What he likes to do is produce TV plays, and he devotes most of his waking hours to it.

Critics have hailed Matinee as the best thing by far in daytime programs. Unfortunately, quality does not always pay off in TV.

Last week, the producer gathered his staff to celebrate the 600th hourlong drama in color on Matinee. But there was a pall over the proceedings. McCleery

"I've been on TV since 1949 and I'm not going off now," he vowed amid cheers.

Later, the producer admitted to meet that the show has lost money. Even with full sponsorship, it would just break even, he said.

"But you've got to figure what the show has done for other departments of NBC. The Burbank color studio cost four million dollars. In three years, we have paid for $1,700,000 of it. That's not a bad investment."

Businessmen Wonder What April Holds

Construction Hirings Expected To Climb; Other Layoffs Due

By WALTER BREDE JR.
NEW YORK (AP) — Which way U.S. business in April?

For most Americans last week, the picture was anything but clear.

Job hunters could expect increased hiring in home building, road construction and projects connected with national defense.

But in most manufacturing industries—and in mining and transportation—the outlook was for layoffs and retrenchments beyond those already announced in March.

Taking the economy as a whole, signs of the usual spring upturn were conspicuous by their absence.

Here and there you could find exceptions.

With the railroads pulling in their horns all over the lot, the Milwaukee Road confidently placed a 12-million-dollar order for 1,150 new freight cars.

Caterpillar Tractor Co. reinstated a full five-day week at its plants in Peoria, Joliet, Milwaukee and San Leandro, Calif.

American Machine & Foundry Co. stepped up production of automatic pinpointers for bowling alleys from 600 to 800 a month.

These were isolated cases. Most of the key indicators at the start of April—described by Labor Secretary Mitchell as the month to watch—still pointed lower.

More than half the steel industry's productive capacity stood idle last week. Output was estimated by the American Iron & Steel Institute at 1,298,000 ingots. Even allowing for absenteeism on Good Friday, this was the smallest for any strike-free week since 1949.

After chugging along in second gear for most of the winter, the auto industry shifted into low. New car production sagged to 66,000, lowest for any normal operating week since 1952. In the same week last year Detroit rolled out more than 130,000 passenger models.

With sales sagging and costs pinching, some companies resorted to pay cuts. The Pennsylvania Railroad ordered a 10 per cent reduction in the pay of all employees earning more than $10,000 a year.

Easter business in the nation's stores was disappointing. That's the latest word from merchants who until recently had hoped for an 11th-hour upsurge in sales.

A post-mortem showed that the knife blade had penetrated the liver, aorta and portal vein, causing a massive hemorrhage. The youngster, described by Anderson as frozen with fear, calmly pulled out the eight-inch blade and laid it on a nearby coffee table.

Carmine Stompanato, the victim's older brother, arrived to take the body back to Woodstock, Ill., for burial. Ex-gambler Mickey Cohen, for whom the younger Stompanato once worked as a bodyguard, expects to fly back for the burial.

Meanwhile, Cheryl remained in Juvenile Hall pending a hearing Tuesday in Santa Monica Superior Court.

Who Wrote Shakespeare?

There's an old argument that Shakespeare didn't write Shakespeare. William Shakespeare, you see, was a lowborn character from the sticks with "little Latin and less Greek," so how could he possibly have become an outstanding writer of English?

The noble Sir Francis Bacon, well grounded in Latin, Greek and philosophy, seemed a more reasonable author of Shakespeare than Shakespeare himself.

Later there were other noble candidates for the honor—the Earl of Oxford, perhaps, or Sir Edward Dyer. The notion that the man capable of writing unsurpassed English dramatic poetry would have been too ashamed of it to let his right name be used never faded these admirers of the aristocracy.

More plausibly, it has lately been suggested that Christopher Marlowe, also a common fellow, but at least a first-rate poet who would indeed have preferred anonymity to capture by the police, was Will Shakespeare's ghost writer.

The arguments adduced on behalf of these presumptuous ghosts lean heavily on cryptography. Bacon, perhaps out of the necessities of political intrigue, invented a cipher which bears his name. He and the other pretenders are supposed to have hidden the secrets of their authorship in cryptic writings appearing either under their own names or in the plays attributed to Shakespeare.

Since the debunkers could make up ciphers to fit their preconceptions, they could offer what looked to a layman like impressive proof.

But now two of the world's best cryptographers, both with vast experience in unraveling for the United States government the messages of enemies and enemy agents, have taken a good look at these anti-Shakespeare arguments. The result is a book, "The Shakespearean Ciphers Examined," by Col. and Mrs. William F. Friedman.

Their conclusion, stripped of the wherefores, the whereases, and the qualifications, is that the various cryptographical "evidence" that Shakespeare didn't write Shakespeare ranges from the highly improbable to the utterly preposterous.

The ciphers used—if any were used—to convey authorship were subject to almost certain misinterpretation and only the veriest beginner could have hoped to get his message through in that way.

Shakespeare's own epitaph contained a curse on any who disturbed his bones, whose dust has been stirred up these many years of literary piers and pokers. But it is unlikely that his unquiet dust will now be permitted to settle.

The Rich Enjoy Chopping Wood

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time there was a poor young woodcutter named Emil Q. Hardeman.

He was the son of a woodcutter and the grandson of a woodcutter.

Emil was sturdy and strong and he worked hard. But he hated his work. He was so busy cutting down the trees he could not see the forest.

On his 21st birthday his father gave him a new ax for a present. It did not please the ambitious young man.

"There is more to life than woodcutting," said Emil, throwing the ax into a corner of the hut.

He left and went to the big city and got himself a job collecting for a small loan agency.

Thanks to his stern honesty and his sterner muscles, Emil at 25 owned the small loan agency.

At 30 he owned a bigger loan agency.

At 50 he owned a chain of banks, hotels, shooting galleries, ship lines, oil fields and diaper laundries.

At 60 he owned—well, if it wasn't nailed down, it belonged to Emil. He had $1 billion, but all of a sudden he was desperately unhappy.

His hands shook. He no longer enjoyed chorus girls, caviar or yachts. He couldn't eat. He could not sleep.

Emil called the world seeking the best medical advice. Nothing helped. Finally he heard of a famous missionary doctor in an African jungle.

The doctor did not give Emil any laboratory tests. He merely felt his pulse, listened to his heart and asked him to stick out his tongue.

Then he inquired: "When were you healthiest in your life?"

"When I was chopping wood," said Emil.

"Well," said the doctor, "Go back and chop some more wood."

So Emil went back to the hut of his father and picked up the ax he had flung into the corner long ago. He began to chop wood.

This time he was in no hurry. He had time to look at the forest and tell it from the trees. He had time to listen to the birds sing and to watch the chipmunks play.

Emil gave up the big city forever. He moved the headquarters of his vast enterprises into his father's hut. In the morning he would get up at dawn and go out and cut down a tree. In the afternoon he would confer with his secretaries and buy another big bank, big steel mill or a big chain of restaurants.

And so, content with his lot—and he did have a lot—Emil lived happily ever after.

Moral: It is always more fun to chop wood when you are rich.

Reds Take Up Capitalism

By George Sokolsky

Bulgaria as head of the Soviet State Bank is not quite the retirement that became the lot of Molotov, Malenkov, Zhukov and Kaganovich. Bulgaria has been given an extremely important position, one that he held earlier in his career but that now becomes very much more significant as Soviet Russia develops the world for gold and engages as a capitalist, making loans to foreign countries.

In fact Soviet Russia is seeking to take the place left vacant by Great Britain as the leader of international finance. This place was available to the United States, the principal capitalist country, but our financial operations abroad were principally limited to assisting governments and to eleemosynary endeavors.

There has also been considerable private financing abroad, but whatever we have done seems not to have influenced the middle class, the worker and intellectual to favor us, except in such countries as Italy, Greece, Turkey and West Germany.

Now, Soviet Russia is developing this field in various parts of the world. The recent agreement with Ceylon is characteristic of the operation. Ceylon had been a British area economically and into it Britain poured enormous quantities of capital. On February 25 of this year, Soviet Russia and Ceylon signed an agreement at Colombo which contains interesting features. I quote them from the Tass official release:

"... It provides for cooperation in realization of plans for Ceylon's economic development, namely surveying and designing irrigation and hydro-engineering projects, developing land for the planting of sugar cane; designing and constructing an iron and steel works, an automobile and tire factory, a flour mill and elevator, a building materials works and other establishments.

"It also plans development of the peat industry, joint scientific research and technical cooperation to increase fishing hauls, and the equipment of study rooms in secondary schools. The Soviet Union will also render technical assistance in the utilization of separate irrigation installations demolished by floods."

This is a tall order and cannot be covered by the long term loan of 120,000,000 rubles which Soviet Russia is lending Ceylon for 12 years at 2.5 per cent annual interest, which is low, indeed. However, Ceylon needs money to amortize this loan. Ceylon can pay in goods, particularly tea, the goods to be priced in pounds sterling "or other freely convertible currency by agreement between the sides."

As Soviet Russia is pouring gold into the world free gold market, especially through London and Switzerland, it is possible to establish a valuta arrangement here which could be very beneficial to Ceylon and which would make that country increasingly dependent on Russia. It is excellent trading on a strictly capitalistic basis.

But to it Russia adds features which the British abandoned long ago, namely that Russian experts and technicians assist in carrying through the provisions and that Ceylonese be sent to Russia as students, returning to their own country as Russified experts. This is exactly what all anti-imperialists complained that the British were doing.

The Soviet State Bank is a central bank which plays an important role in determining the value of the ruble and in the creation of credit in such transactions as I have described.

Bulgaria has had considerable experience in this field and seems to be able to think in bourgeois terms, which is necessary for a good banker. It is therefore not at all surprising that Khrushchev should have put his former travelling companion into this position where he can fight capitalism with capitalistic weapons—gold, credit, international finance.

The day may come when Soviet Russia feels sufficiently strong to make the gold ruble the basic currency of the Soviet Union. This would cause a considerable upset in the exchange value of currencies in all the capitalist countries. Soviet Russia has enough gold to put her own or a special export currency on a gold reserve and can mine gold within her own territory in important quantities.

This is something that some Americans thought worth looking into two years ago. It was suggested as a subject for study by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. This committee made several false starts and then dropped the subject, because no senator was willing to preside at dull hearings on a subject which apparently few understand. The time of advantage may have been lost.

LEBANON (AP)—One of six classrooms was destroyed at West Elementary School in nearby Franklin Sunday when papers, taken from a teacher's desk, were ignited in all the rooms.

School officials reported the fires apparently went out in all but one classroom. The state fire marshal's office was asked to investigate. A damage estimate was not announced.

DORE SCHARY, ex-bigwig of Hollywood, is the author of the new hit-play about F.D.R., "Sunrise at Campobello."

Asked if he would sell the picture rights to the studio he once ruled, Scharly chuckled, "I refer you to a remark of the great Samuel Johnson: 'No man but a blockhead ever wrote except for money.'" An associate added, "You may call this the open Dore policy."

Incidentally, the movie magnate who first summoned Dore Scharly to California thought he was hiring a girl, and was mighty surprised when a 6-foot he-man answered the call.

Bandits were robbing a small but rich bank. Their leader was scooping up the last trayful of loot when the cashier implored, "Do me a favor and take the books, too. I'm a couple of hundred thousand short!"

Young Diabetics Need Quiet

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Diabetes in children is often more difficult to treat than it is in the middle-aged or elderly. This is because it presents special therapeutic problems which can make things rather difficult for both the doctor and the patient.

For one thing, most diabetic children are undernourished when the disease is discovered. Diabetes usually strikes children rather abruptly, and the symptoms are generally more severe than in adult cases.

Dangerous infections occur more readily in young diabetics. Their nutritional needs are greater than those of adult patients, and these needs change constantly.

That's why many physicians recommend that a child with diabetes be hospitalized during the time when both he and his parents are being indoctrinated in the changes which must be made in his life and his care in general.

Many young diabetics can get along pretty well on the same general diet that non-diabetic youngsters eat.

Such a diet should provide enough calories to meet growth and activity needs of the individual child. It should also be rich in protective foods and it should have a fairly high protein content.

Sugar, and all foods containing sugar, of course, should be eliminated from the diet.

I'm not going to suggest a menu because each child requires an individualized diet. You can't base food requirements on age and sex alone; you must consider the build of the youngster, his rate of growth and his physical activities.

As for insulin, many youngsters are sensitive to it, yet most diabetic children require more than one injection a day. Unmodified insulin at the rate of 0.5 to 1.5 units per pound of body weight is generally given three to four times a day during the early stages of the disease. Gradually the dosage is decreased.

A young diabetic must have good living habits and he must establish them during the early stages of the disease. He must eat good, healthful food in the proper amounts at regular times; he must get plenty of rest and he must follow his doctor's advice about physical activities.

One more important point: A young diabetic must avoid emotional crises whenever possible. He must learn to adjust himself to a relatively quiet, peaceful way of life.

Question and Answer
D. T.: I am 70 years old and have a severe rupture. What do you recommend as a cure?

Answer: A rupture or hernia usually can be treated adequately by surgery. Even at your age, successful operations are performed with little risk.

However, if there is some physical impairment that would make an operation risky, the hernia might be helped by injection treatments.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three times in a row the Soviets have made a propaganda monkey of us. The Eisenhower administration, put on the defensive, hasn't been able to take the initiative.

The three Soviet propaganda victories: launching of the Sputniks; former Premier Bulganin's call for summit talks; the announcement the Soviet Union would ban nuclear tests. All three had a convulsive effect, here or abroad.

Last fall's orbiting Sputniks, conclusive evidence of Soviet power and progress, chilled our European allies into instant realization they could be blasted flat by Soviet missiles in a future war.

It makes them more than ever anxious for peaceful understanding with the Soviets.

The Sputniks shocked this country into convulsive soul-searching. Soviet intercontinental, ocean-spanning missiles, of which the Sputniks could be a forerunner, would rip away this country's ancient safety behind the Atlantic and Pacific.

More than that: the United States was shaken out of the complacency it had felt about its scientific and industrial superiority. Why didn't happen? Why were the Soviets ahead?

These questions immediately took second place behind demands that the government go all out to catch up. A stunned Congress was willing to throw the Treasury wide open for missile development.

Eventually this country offset some of the damage done to American prestige when it got three of its own satellites aloft.

Adventists Oppose Ohio 'Blue Laws'

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—The day of the week a man chooses for his sabbath is no concern of any government, Ohio's Seventh-Day Adventists contend.

Out of their 21st biennial constituency convention of the Ohio Adventist Conference here Sunday came a resolution to oppose so-called "blue laws." It was unanimously accepted and says, in part: "Blue laws, which prevent certain activities on Sunday, are nothing more than religious legislation, and religious legislation is unconstitutional."

Saturday is the sabbath for Adventists.

But not quite. The American satellites were tiny compared with the Soviet models.

Only last month Secretary of State Dulles expressed doubt—because of the Soviet head start in outer space exploration—that we could beat the Soviets to the moon.

Also last fall—with the world still dizzy from the Sputnik triumph—the Soviets hit again. This time it was in the form of letters from Bulganin to President Eisenhower and others.

He called for negotiations and a summit talk. This was done just as Eisenhower and Dulles were preparing to go to Paris for talks with the NATO Allies.

The Eisenhower administration tion's reaction to Bulganin was dim and negative. But it had to change this when Eisenhower and Dulles found the Allies had a different view. They wanted to explore the Soviet proposals.

Ever since then Eisenhower has been in correspondence with Bulganin. The result has been zero. And now Bulganin's successor, Premier Khrushchev, has taken over the letter writing.

Last week the Soviets scored again. With the whole world worried about the radioactive fallout from nuclear tests, the Soviets announced they would stop theirs as long as others did likewise.

Eisenhower called it a "gimmick." The Soviets had just finished their 1958 tests when they made the announcement knowing the American 1958 tests had been scheduled to start within a month or two.

Again the Eisenhower administration was on the defensive. It explained it was anxious to develop "clean" bombs—with less radioactive fallout—and smaller nuclear weapons. The administration took the position this must be done.

It makes sense, if you accept the administration explanation. Not all scientists do. But as a result of these three Soviet propaganda successes, the administration may feel forced to make concessions it had no intention of making.

That still would not be taking the propaganda initiative. It would be even more of a victory for the Soviets, since it would be simply a reaction forced by the Soviets.

Oddly enough, the proposed new Lincoln-Douglas debate postage stamp is causing very little talk.

Who Wrote Shakespeare?

There's an old argument that Shakespeare didn't write Shakespeare. William Shakespeare, you see, was a lowborn character from the sticks with "little Latin and less Greek," so how could he possibly have become an outstanding writer of English?

The noble Sir Francis Bacon, well grounded in Latin, Greek and philosophy, seemed a more reasonable author of Shakespeare than Shakespeare himself.

Later there were other noble candidates for the honor—the Earl of Oxford, perhaps, or Sir Edward Dyer. The notion that the man capable of writing unsurpassed English dramatic poetry would have been too ashamed of it to let his right name be used never fazed these admirers of the aristocracy.

More plausibly, it has lately been suggested that Christopher Marlowe, also a common fellow, but at least a first-rate poet who would indeed have preferred anonymity to capture by the police, was Will Shakespeare's ghost writer.

The arguments adduced on behalf of these presumptuous ghosts lean heavily on cryptography. Bacon, perhaps out of the necessities of political intrigue, invented a cipher which bears his name. He and the other pretenders are supposed to have hidden the secrets of their authorship in cryptic writings appearing either under their own names or in the plays attributed to Shakespeare.

Since the debunkers could make up ciphers to fit their preconceptions, they could offer what looked to a layman like impressive proof.

But now two of the world's best cryptographers, both with vast experience in unraveling for the United States government the messages of enemies and enemy agents, have taken a good look at these anti-Shakespeare arguments. The result is a book, "The Shakespearean Ciphers Examined," by Col. and Mrs. William F. Friedman.

Their conclusion, stripped of the wherefores, the whereas, and the qualifications, is that the various cryptographical "evidence" that Shakespeare didn't write Shakespeare ranges from the highly improbable to the utterly preposterous.

The ciphers used—if any were used—to convey authorship were subject to almost certain misinterpretation and only the veriest beginner could have hoped to get his message through in that way.

Shakespeare's own epitaph contained a curse on any who disturbed his bones, whose dust has been stirred up these many years of literary priers and pokers. But it is unlikely that his unquiet dust will now be permitted to settle.

The Rich Enjoy Chopping Wood

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time there was a poor young woodcutter named Emil Q. Hardeman.

He was the son of a woodcutter and the grandson of a woodcutter.

Emil was sturdy and strong and he worked hard. But he hated his work. He was so busy cutting down the trees he could not see the forest.

On his 21st birthday his father gave him a new ax for a present. It did not please the ambitious young man.

"There is more to life than woodcutting," said Emil, throwing the ax into a corner of the hut.

He left and went to the big city and got himself a job collecting for a small loan agency.

Thanks to his stern honesty and his sterner muscles, Emil at 25 owned the small loan agency. At 30 he owned a bigger loan agency.

At 50 he owned a chain of banks, hotels, shooting galleries, ship lines, oil fields and diaper laundries.

At 60 he owned — well, if it wasn't nailed down, it belonged to Emil. He had $1 billion, but all of a sudden he was desperately unhappy.

His hands shook. He no longer enjoyed chorus girls, caviar or yachts. He couldn't eat. He could not sleep.

Emil sailed the world seeking the best medical advice. Nothing helped. Finally he heard of a famous missionary doctor in an African jungle.

The doctor did not give Emil any laboratory tests. He merely felt his pulse, listened to his heart and asked him to stick out his tongue.

Then he inquired: "When were you healthiest in your life?" "When I was chopping wood," said Emil.

"Well," said the doctor, "Go back and chop some more wood."

So Emil went back to the hut of his father and picked up the ax he had flung into the corner long ago. He began to chop wood.

This time he was in no hurry. He had time to look at the forest and tell it from the trees. He had time to listen to the birds sing and to watch the chipmunks play.

Emil gave up the big city forever. He moved the headquarters of his vast enterprises into his father's hut. In the morning he would get up at dawn and go out and cut down a tree. In the afternoon he would confer with his secretaries and buy another big bank, big steel mill or a big chain of restaurants.

And so, content with his lot — and he did have a lot — Emil lived happily ever after.

Moral: It is always more fun to chop wood when you are rich.

Reds Take Up Capitalism

By George Sokolsky

Bulgaria as head of the Soviet State Bank is not quite the retirement that became the lot of Molotov, Malenkov, Zhukov and Kaganovitch. Bulgaria has been given an extremely important position, one that he held earlier in his career but that now becomes very much more significant as Soviet Russia develops the world for gold and engages as a capitalist, making loans to foreign countries.

In fact Soviet Russia is seeking to take the place left vacant by Great Britain as the leader of international finance. This place was a valuable one to the United States, the principal capitalist country, but our financial operations abroad were principally limited to assisting governments and to eleemosynary endeavors.

There has also been considerable private financing abroad, but whatever we have done seems not to have influenced the middle class, the worker and intellectual to favor us, except in such countries as Italy, Greece, Turkey and West Germany.

Now, Soviet Russia is developing this field in various parts of the world. The recent agreement with Ceylon is characteristic of the operation. Ceylon had been a British area economically and into it Britain poured enormous quantities of capital. On February 25 of this year, Soviet Russia and Ceylon signed an agreement at Colombo which contains interesting features. I quote them from the Tass official release:

"... It provides for cooperation in realization of plans for Ceylon's economic development, namely surveying and designing irrigation and hydro-engineering projects, developing land for the planting of sugar cane; designing and constructing an iron and steel works, an automobile and tire factory, a flour mill and elevator, a building materials works and other establishments.

"It also plans development of the peat industry, joint scientific research and technical cooperation to increase fishing hauls, and the equipment of study rooms in secondary schools. The Soviet Union will also render technical assistance in the utilization of separate irrigation installations demolished by floods."

This is a tall order and cannot be covered by the long term loan of 120,000,000 rubles which Soviet Russia is lending Ceylon for 12 years at 2.5 per cent annual interest, which is low, indeed. However, Ceylon needs money and to amortize this loan, Ceylon can pay in goods, particularly tea, the goods to be priced in pounds sterling "or other freely convertible currency by agreement between the sides."

As Soviet Russia is pouring gold into the world free gold market, especially through London and Switzerland, it is possible to establish a valuta arrangement here which could be very beneficial to Ceylon and which would make that country increasingly dependent on Russia. It is excellent trading on a strictly capitalist basis.

But to it Russia adds features which the British abandoned long ago, namely that Russian experts and technicians assist in carrying through the provisions and that Ceylonese be sent to Russia as students, returning to their own country as Russified experts. This is exactly what all anti-imperialists complained that the British were doing.

The Soviet State Bank is a central bank which plays an important role in determining the value of the ruble and in the creation of credit in such transactions as I have described.

Bulgaria has had considerable experience in this field and seems to be able to think in bourgeois terms, which is necessary for a good banker. It is therefore not at all surprising that Khrushchev should have put his former travelling companion into this position where he can fight capitalism with capitalist weapons—gold, credit, international finance.

The day may come when Soviet Russia feels sufficiently strong to make the gold ruble the basic currency of the Soviet Universal State, thus causing a considerable upset in the exchange value of currencies in all the capitalist countries. Soviet Russia has enough gold to put her own or a special export currency on a gold reserve and can mine gold within her own territory in important quantities.

This is something that some Americans thought worth looking into two years ago. It was suggested as a subject for study by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. This committee made several false starts and then dropped the subject, because no senator was willing to preside at dull hearings on a subject which apparently few understand. The time of advantage may have been lost.

Franklin School Hit by Fires

LEBANON (AP)—One of six classrooms was destroyed at West Elementary School in nearby Franklin Sunday when papers, taken from a teacher's desk, were ignited in all the rooms.

School officials reported the fires apparently went out in all but one classroom. The state fire marshal's office was asked to investigate. A damage estimate was not announced.

Ohio GOP Vote May Top Total By Democrats

5 to 4 Edge Expected In Buckeye Primary Election on May 6

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Republicans may outvote Democrats nearly five to four in Ohio's May 6 primary elections.

Registration reports from election boards in major counties indicate that division in the voting.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, who holds a high batting average in voting predictions, estimates the total vote at about 950,000. His guess is more than 80,000 above the total of 869,222 votes in the primaries of 1954, comparable non-presidential election year.

Brown did not estimate how the parties will divide this year's primary vote. On the basis of his total forecast, the split could run about 520,000 Republican and 430,000 Democrat votes.

In 1954, Republicans cast 480,464 and Democrats 388,758 primary votes.

The record-high 1952 primary total of 1,335,035 was composed of 936,574 Republican and 398,461 Democrat votes. In the 1956 primary, Republicans cast 650,131 votes and Democrats 572,332 for a total of 1,222,463.

Ohio's population of more than nine million includes an estimated six million potential voters. On that basis, fewer than one-sixth of those who might vote may go to the polls on primary day.

Several counties report record registrations this year. Others where registrations were slow said the voting potential remained high because those who registered in record numbers two years ago still are eligible to cast ballots.

Registrations in the 39 counties having countywide or partial registration requirements are good for two years. In areas where registration is not required, residents can vote if they are 21 or older on Nov. 4, general election day, and have lived in the state a year and in their county and precinct 40 days.

Latest figures from Cuyahoga County show a record off-year registration total of 702,907. Registrations are off slightly in Cleveland but those in other parts of the county boosted the aggregate.

Cuyahoga County's biggest primary vote was about 251,000 in 1952. Officials said vote interest is running high this year because two of seven candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination are Clevelanders.

Montgomery County listed 200,066 registered for a new high but officials estimated only about 40,000 would vote in the primaries.

Franklin County's total of 210,000 is the highest for any non-presidential year. Butler County also reported a high of 71,394 registered.

Interest in the primaries appeared somewhat milder in Hamilton County where 361,311 registered for a lower than usual total. Registration also was light in Mahoning County but heavy registrations in 1956 kept this year's total of about 144,000 relatively high.

Lucas County registrations hit a new high of 202,016 and Summit County expects its total to reach or better the 200,000 mark.

Ohio News Women Offer Scholarships

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Newspaper Women's Assn. is receiving applications for its annual scholarship awards.

The association gives two awards—the Ruth Neely France Scholarship of $250 and the ONWA Scholarship of $200.

Any high school senior girl who plans to attend an Ohio college and intends to enter newspaper work is eligible to apply.

Applications may be obtained from Katherine Sullivan of the Columbus Citizen or Betty Renfro of the Cincinnati Post. Deadline for applications is May 15.

Special Assembly Session Said Poison in Voting Year

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—For the benefit of any Ohioan who has been lying awake nights worrying about a possible special session of the Legislature, here is a word of assurance:

Go to sleep.

As things stand now, there isn't a ghost of a chance.

There's a good reason.

Special sessions in election years are political poison.

Records dating all the way back to 1940 must be scanned before you can find a governor who was re-elected after calling an election-year special session.

That was Republican John W. Bricker, late in his first term, when he called the Legislature to divorce the presidential ballot from the state ballot.

Democrat Frank J. Lausche called the Legislature three times in the election year of 1946, late in his first term, and he was defeated in November that year by Republican Thomas J. Herbert.

Herbert, in mid-1948, called the Legislature to increase pensions for the aged and blind and to reduce the sales tax, but he was defeated in November by a Lausche comeback.

Lausche never again called an election-year special session while he still was a candidate for governor.

So, despite pressures from many sides for a special legislative session to cover a multitude of issues, Republican C. William O'Neill has no present intention of risking his political neck in the rough-and-tumble of an election-year session.

It is something of a political axiom that a candidate never does anything to help an opponent get his sales pitch over to the public.

A politician can spend weeks and thousands of dollars touring the highways and byways of Ohio's 88 counties and 41,000 square miles—and still attract little public attention.

But give the same politician the perfect sounding board of a legislative session and he's likely to get his story told all over the state inside 24 hours—in newspapers and via radio and television.

That is another reason a governor seeking re-election considers it the height of folly to summon legislators during a campaign.

Records show there have been 23 special sessions of the General Assembly in the last 25 years.

In the deep Depression years of 1933-34, Democratic Gov. George White had the Legislature in almost continual special session for an entire year.

But, in 1934, White was not a candidate for re-election. His successor, Democrat Martin L. Davey, braved and beat the election-year session jinx in 1936 and was re-elected. But he broke out into a rash of special sessions in 1937-38. In 1938, he was a candidate for a third term, but he was not even renominated.

Then came Bricker, who beat the jinx in his first term, called no special sessions during his second, but called two in his third.

He was not a candidate for re-election during his third term.

After his bitter experience of defeat in 1946, Lausche waited until his fifth term—when he was ready to retire from the governor's office—to call another election-year session. In that year, 1956, he called two.

Leopold Fitting In Well In $10-a-Month Lab Job

CATANER, Puerto Rico (AP)—

Nathan Leopold is learning the techniques of his $10-a-month laboratory job in the hospital here and using most of his spare time to answer his mail.

One hospital official said the paroled Chicago slayer has received 2,800 letters in three weeks from all over the United States. He intends to answer every letter.

This little settlement, high in the hills 80 miles from San Juan, seems to be granting Leopold privacy. He appealed for privacy when he was released from prison in Illinois March 13 after serving 33½ years of a life sentence for the 1924 slaying of Bobby Franks.

The village has accepted him with scant curiosity. "You could say it was more or less the same curiosity usually shown in a small town toward any new arrival from another town," an official of the Church of the Brethren Hospital said.

Leopold took pains to explain to newsmen who saw him at San Juan Airport upon his arrival March 15 that conditions imposed by his parole definitely prevented any interview. Hospital officials refuse permission for interviews or photographs.

Hospital authorities say Leopold has been working in the laboratory with another technical already employed there. His work consists of taking x-rays, making blood tests and the like.

"Actually he is getting familiar with the general setup," an official said, "and learning new techniques. As soon as he is fully acquainted with the work to be done here he will be working alone."

"He seems to be very conscientious in his work."

Leopold, now 53, starts his working day at 8 a.m., works a regular eight-hour shift, but is on call for additional hours if needed. He takes his meals with the rest in the hospital dining room.

He speaks Spanish with his patients and those who have worked with him say he has been happy that her refund amounted to two cents, Mrs. Buford replied:

"I'll contribute it to the highway construction fund."

with the way he has been accepted.

Thus far Leopold has not left the hospital to go to Adjuntas, the small town nearest to Cataner.

Cataner itself is a rural community comprising a great number of small one-acre farms. Right in its midst is the Cataner Hospital.

A luncheon and dance Tuesday night will highlight the start of the new calendar year for the Circleville Elks Lodge. The affair will be annual "Installation Night" for the local fraternal order. Tuesday's program will be broken into three parts.

At 8 p. m., past exalted rulers of the lodge will represent the Grand Lodge in installing the new officers who will guide the local 650-member organization until April 1, 1959.

In charge of this portion of the program, a solemn and impressive ceremony, will be by Judge William D. Radcliff and six other local leaders who have headed in Elks in years past.

The ceremony will be followed by a luncheon in the lodge dining rooms.

This will be followed by a dance in the lodge room. Featured will be the Johnny Wright combo, known in some quarters as the Dick Bowers Band.

Officials of the lodge said there would be no admission charged for the entire evening's program.

IT'S NOT permissible to make extensive make-up repairs at the dining table. You can, however, freshen make-up.

Let's Hope You Have Good Table Manners

We know of a romance that came to an untimely end because, as the young man told us, "I can't bear to listen to her eating soup!" It shows how important table manners are. Look beautiful, act charming, but have bad table manners and the illusion is shattered.

Consider first, your appearance at table.

Do not slump over your meal. Sit tall and straight.

Don't rest elbows on the table while eating. The hand you're not using should rest lightly in your lap.

Don't sprawl feet out. Don't wrap them around the chair legs. Keep them neatly together.

Never apply eyebrow pencil or mascara at table. It is permissible to touch up lipstick or powder, but do it discreetly. Production make-up jobs are taboo.

Think about the way you eat. Be silent. Don't slurp down liquids or chew solid foods noisily. Don't attack food like a vacuum cleaner. Eat slowly and graciously.

Don't use a boarding-house reach that takes you out of your chair. Reach only for things that are conveniently close. Ask others to pass things that are at a distance.

How's your table talk? Never make any reference to food that's not to your liking. It's neither necessary to talk about it nor to eat it.

Avoid squeamish topics or highly controversial ones. Never try to speak when your mouth is full of food.

Robert Whaley Honored With Birthday Fete

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whaley, Route 1, honored their son, Robert Jr., on his 9th birthday with a party Sunday afternoon.

A decorated lamb cake and ice cream was served to the following guests: Michael and Timmy Haley, Lola and Zola Arledge, Larry, Patrick, Stevie and Vickie Whaley, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Arledge, Mrs. Raymond Haley and Mrs. Laura Smith.

Baked custards have extra appeal when they are chilled, turned out of their baking cups and served with strawberries (fresh or frozen) or canned apricot halves. You can buy a small (about 8 ounces) can of the apricots for this topping.

American Woman Carries Big Stick; But Can She Kill Current Recession?

NEW YORK (AP)—The American housewife who holds the family pursestrings, say the economists, can stop the current recession in its tracks—by keeping her nerve, her temper and her head in a difficult period.

Many factors combine to affect adversely the nation's complicated economy: production cuts, rising food costs, housing costs, expansion slowdowns, unemployment.

"But if you add to that an arbitrary personal refusal to spend money, this can send the economy into a tailspin," says economist Leo Cherne of the Research Institute. "The very worst thing that could happen now is for the American family to be panicked into saving beyond its normal saving."

Statistics indicate, at least to the economists, that housewives and breadwinners so far have been maintaining normal habits in that huge area called "consumer spending." Sharp drops have been noted, however, in some special fields, notably automobile purchases.

And although the diagnosticians differ among themselves on the recession's cause, and differ even more in their opinions on the cure, they are generally agreed that money hoarding—the wide development of a fear of buying—can be disastrous.

"The primary thing about the current slump is not to get pessimistic, to keep one's confidence up," says an economist who is also a housewife. She is Jo Bingham, executive of the Government Finance Department of the National Assn. of Manufacturers and in private life the wife of a Connecticut businessman.

"Psychology is one of the largest factors in a boom or in a depression," she says, adding this word of caution: "But I think that any housewife will feel as I feel—that being pressed into buying just means higher prices. The 'buy more' pitch just leads to 'buy more inflation.'"

"Every buyer should shop for the best purchase," she continues, "and every woman should try to get the most for her money. It isn't necessary to go on a buying spree to ward off the worst. Just don't get scared and stop normal buying—keep on trying to get the best product for the best price."

A different theory on the cause of the economy's troubles comes from psychologist Ernest Dichter, who heads an organization whose specialty is "motivational research," or digging for the motives behind the actions of people. Dr. Dichter agrees heartily that recessions as well as boom times are psychological. But he thinks much of the current slump has been wrought by consumers—housewives and breadwinners—who are not so much scared as irritated.

"Several of our studies have revealed that consumers actually welcome signs of a recession," Dichter recently told a meeting of sales executives. "This is a period in which the consumer is putting the manufacturer on the spot. He wants to find out how much he has been overcharged or whether he has been treated with fairness in the past. If prices are indiscriminately slashed, there is a grave danger that the consumer will become more than ever convinced that he was being cheated during a period of prosperity. He will hold out and wait for the moment when he really has the manufacturer over a barrel—a moment when prices hit rock bottom. What is needed, then, is not merely a reduction of prices, but even more a better communication between the advertiser and the consumer, an explanation of price policies."

AP Guesspert Picks Cards To Win in NL

Milwaukee Rated Second, Reds Third In Early Prediction

By JACK HAND
AP Baseball Expert

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Although Milwaukee's Braves are favored to repeat as National League champions, it looks like another wild scramble with the St. Louis Cardinals picked here to sneak home first.

The Braves are the odds-makers choice off their eight-game victory in 1957 and their fine performance in beating the New York Yankees in the World Series. This observer, who picked the Braves a year ago, is not convinced they have the stuff to repeat.

St. Louis must have exceptional years from men like Wally Moon, Ken Boyer, Del Ennis and Stan Musial. It must find a couple of 20-game winners among Sam Jones, Vinegar Bend Mizell, Lindy McDaniel and Larry Jackson. Al Dark must learn the tricks of third base play. Most of all, they have to be lucky.

On the basis of their spring training performance, Fred Hutchinson's Cards rate a long-shot chance of upsetting the favorites.

Milwaukee has the club, on paper. The pitching is solid with Bob Rush added to Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl. Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron give the Braves the big punch.

However, Manager Fred Haney still has a centerfield problem with Bill Bruton recovering slowly from a knee operation. Aaron probably will have to play center again for the first part of the season. If anything serious should be the matter with Del Crandall's elbow, the catching could be a prime headache.

It remains to be seen whether Red Schoendienst again can stand up under everyday play. And who expects Bob Hazle to hit .403 again?

Cincinnati sacrificed tremendous power in trading Wally Post and Ted Kluszewski. It is the opinion here that the added pitching of Harvey Haddix and Bob Purkey won't be enough to rescue a staff that was last in the league last year.

The new fans in Los Angeles' vast Coliseum will see a Dodge team based on pitching, rather than home run power. Manager Walter Alton has perhaps the best staff in the league.

Roy Campanella's loss will weaken the club. The Dodgers do not have an adequate No. 1 replacement. Duke Snider's slow recovery from an off season knee operation, may cut into his value.

Philadelphia has infield trouble. Robin Roberts has been in-and-out. The club still lacks punch despite the addition of Post.

San Francisco must count on new men like Orlando Cepeda, Willie Kirkland and Jim Davenport to give their new Giants enough punch to beat out Pittsburgh and Chicago. Willie Mays, of course, is the man who makes the big difference on this club.

Kluszewski can mean the difference between sixth and eighth with Pittsburgh. The pitching behind Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline and Vern Law remains thin.

When Moe Drabowsky gets back from service soon to team with Dick Drott, the Chicago Cubs will have two topnotch pitchers. Ernie Banks and Dale Long are the home run threats, but the batting order is weak.

So this is how it looks from here:

1. St. Louis
2. Milwaukee
3. Cincinnati
4. Los Angeles
5. Philadelphia
6. San Francisco
7. Pittsburgh
8. Chicago

League representatives Sunday voted unanimously for this "unless conditions materially change."

Frank J. Shaughnessy, league president, remarked, "It's as quiet there as it is here."

President John C. Stigmeier of the Buffalo team, which has the opener in Havana April 16, said he was happy over the decision.

League representatives from five U.S. cities, two in Canada, and Havana met for two hours behind locked doors to discuss the situation brought on by rebel leader Fidel Castro's campaign against the government of Fulgencio Batista.

It is known that Stigmeier went into the "emergency meeting" reluctant to play in Havana. He had said he objected to his team being used as "guinea pigs."

He said afterward, "Conditions have changed. There isn't the danger it was."

Roberto Madura, owner of the

Tigers Halt Logan With Double Win

Good hitting and some tight pitching gave Circleville High's baseball Tigers a doubleheader victory at Logan Saturday. The locals breezed through, 6-1, in the first tilt and 11-2 in the second.

In the first game Don Rowland twirled a three-hitter and fanned 15 while the Tigers picked up nine hits, including two triples by freshman Harry Strawser.

The second tilt saw Joe Adkins and Duane Dean scatter six Logan hits and strike out 11. CHS collected 11 tallies on 11 hits.

Hitting stars for the afternoon were first baseman Bill Purcell who had five hits in nine trips; Harry Strawser, with two triples and a single; Cal Ellis, four hits in eight tries; and John Wright, with two doubles and a single in seven trips.

Circleville started fast in the first game, picking up three runs in the first inning. Ellis and Purcell both singled and then Strawser sent both home, with a long triple to right field. Strawser scored on a passed ball.

The score went to 6-0 in the third, the big blow being another long triple to almost the identical spot by Strawser. Purcell and Dick Smith also got singles in that frame.

Rowland lost his shutout in the sixth, when he weakened temporarily. He had just completed striking out nine of ten batters to face him when he walked Patterson to open the sixth frame.

A single by Burton and another walk to Duffey loaded the bases with none out. After a fielder's choice allowed one run to score, Rowland again bore down to strike out the next three batters.

Circleville left only two men on base in the first game.

Havana club, said there's no fighting in Havana and western Cuba and that the rebels are in mountains 750 miles from Havana.

Anyway, he said, baseball players would not be molested in his island.

"Baseball in Cuba is like a religion," he said. "It's out of politics."

THE FINAL tally came in the seventh on one hit—Purcell's fifth single of the afternoon.

After allowing the first four men to reach base, Adkins settled down and gave up only three more hits and one more base on balls the rest of the way. He struck out eight in the six innings he worked.

Duane Dean came on in the seventh and struck out the side after hitting one batter.

Circleville's record is now 2-1. The loss was a 3-2 decision to Chillicothe.

Coach Dick Boyd said that he has learned a lot about CHS personnel in these three non-league games and that the Tigers now appear ready for their first SCOL game with Franklin Heights here Tuesday.

The Tigers have a busy week ahead with five games scheduled.

After Franklin Heights on Tuesday, Chillicothe comes here on Wednesday. The Tigers travel to Hillsboro on Friday and then come back to meet Athens here in a doubleheader on Saturday.

Mike Hosler who didn't make the trip to Logan Saturday because of work, probably will draw the starting assignment against Franklin Heights. Don Rowland is scheduled to pitch against Chillicothe.

AP Guesspert Picks Cards To Win in NL

Milwaukee Rated Second, Reds Third In Early Prediction

By JACK HAND
AP Baseball Expert

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Although Milwaukee's Braves are favored to repeat as National League champions, it looks like another wild scramble with the St. Louis Cardinals picked here to sneak home first.

The Braves are the odds-makers choice off their eight - game victory in 1957 and their fine performance in beating the New York Yankees in the World Series. This observer, who picked the Braves a year ago, is not convinced they have the stuff to repeat.

St. Louis must have exceptional years from men like Wally Moon, Ken Boyer, Del Ennis and Stan Musial. It must find a couple of 20-game winners among Sam Jones, Vinegar Bend Mizell, Lindy McDaniel and Larry Jackson. Al Dark must learn the tricks of third base play. Most of all, they have to be lucky.

On the basis of their spring training performance, Fred Hutchinson's Cards rate a long-shot chance of upsetting the favorites.

Milwaukee has the club, on paper. The pitching is solid with Bob Rush added to Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and Bob Buhl. Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron give the Braves the big punch.

However, Manager Fred Haney still has a centerfield problem with Bill Bruton recovering slowly from a knee operation. Aaron probably will have to play center again for the first part of the season. If anything serious should be the matter with Del Crandall's elbow, the catching could be a prime headache.

It remains to be seen whether Red Schoendienst again can stand up under everyday play. And who expects Bob Hazle to hit .403 again?

Cincinnati sacrificed tremendous power in trading Wally Post and Ted Kluszewski. It is the opinion here that the added pitching of Harvey Haddix and Bob Purkey won't be enough to rescue a staff that was last in the league last year.

The new fans in Los Angeles' vast Coliseum will see a Dodger team based on pitching, rather than home run power. Manager Walter Alston has perhaps the best staff in the league.

Roy Campanella's loss will weaken the club. The Dodgers do not have an adequate No. 1 replacement. Duke Snider's slow recovery from an off season knee operation, may cut into his value. Philadelphia has infield trouble. Robin Roberts has been in-and-out. The club still lacks punch despite the addition of Post.

San Francisco must count on new men like Orlando Cepeda, Willie Kirkland and Jim Davenport to give their new Giants enough punch to beat out Pittsburgh and Chicago. Willie Mays, of course, is the man who makes the big difference on this club.

Kluszewski can mean the difference between sixth and eighth with Pittsburgh. The pitching behind Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline and Vern Law remains thin.

When Moe Drabowsky gets back from service soon to team with Dick Drott, the Chicago Cubs will have two topnotch pitchers. Ernie Banks and Dale Long are the home run threats, but the batting order is weak.

So this is how it looks from here:

1. St. Louis
2. Milwaukee
3. Cincinnati
4. Los Angeles
5. Philadelphia
6. San Francisco
7. Pittsburgh
8. Chicago.

War or Not Cuba Baseball To Continue

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The International League is going ahead with plans to open the baseball season in Havana despite threats of war in Cuba.

League representatives Sunday voted unanimously for this "unless conditions materially change."

Frank J. Shaughnessy, league president, remarked, "It's as quiet there as it is here."

President John C. Stiglmeier of the Buffalo team, which has the opener in Havana April 16, said he was happy over the decision.

League representatives from five U.S. cities, two in Canada, and Havana met for two hours behind locked doors to discuss the situation brought on by rebel leader Fidel Castro's campaign against the government of Fulgencio Batista.

It is known that Stiglmeier went into the "emergency meeting" reluctant to play in Havana. He had said he objected to his team being used as "guinea pigs."

He said afterward, "Conditions have changed. There isn't the danger it was."

Tigers Halt Logan With Double Win

Good hitting and some tight pitching gave Circleville High's baseball Tigers a doubleheader victory at Logan Saturday. The locals breezed through, 6-1, in the first tilt and 11-2 in the second.

In the first game Don Rowland twirled a three-hitter and fanned 15 while the Tigers picked up nine hits, including two triples by freshman Harry Strawser.

The second tilt saw Joe Adkins and Duane Dean scatter six Logan hits and strike out 11. CHS collected 11 tallies on 11 hits.

Hitting stars for the afternoon were first baseman Bill Purcell who had five hits in nine trips; Harry Strawser, with two triples and a single; Cal Ellis, four hits in eight tries; and John Wright, with two doubles and a single in seven trips.

CIRCLEVILLE started fast in the first game, picking up three runs in the first inning. Ellis and Purcell both singled and then Strawser sent both home, with a long triple to right field. Strawser scored on a passed ball.

The score went to 6-0 in the third, the big blow being another long triple to almost the identical spot by Strawser. Purcell and Dick Smith also got singles in that frame.

Rowland lost his shutout in the sixth, when he weakened temporarily. He had just completed striking out nine of ten batters to face him when he walked Patterson to open the sixth frame.

A single by Burton and another walk to Duffey loaded the bases with none out. After a fielder's choice allowed one run to score, Rowland again bore down to strike out the next three batters.

Circleville left only two men on base in the first game.

Havana club, said there's no fighting in Havana and western Cuba and that the rebels are in mountainous 750 miles from Havana.

Anyway, he said, baseball players would not be molested in his island.

"Baseball in Cuba is like a religion," he said. "It's out of politics."

The Tigers have a busy week ahead with five games scheduled. After Franklin Heights on Tuesday, Chillicothe comes here on Wednesday. The Tigers travel to Hillsboro on Friday and then come back to meet Athens here in a doubleheader on Saturday.

Mike Hosler who didn't make the trip to Logan Saturday because of work, probably will draw the starting assignment against Franklin Heights. Don Rowland is scheduled to pitch against Chillicothe.

OHIO OUTDOORS

from THE OHIO DIVISION OF WILDLIFE

A revised land and soil conservation judging score card is now available, according to Ken Dotson, chief of the division of land and soil.

Several suggestions for improvement and clarification have been included. A simple method of indicating slope of the land with the scorecard should prove to be a popular feature.

Slope of the land, depth of topsoil, texture of surface soil, and depth of soil favorable to root development have all been more thoroughly explained by illustrations. The method of scoring contestants is simplified and easier to follow.

Land judging has proved to be a popular activity with Ohio vocational agriculture students. Local and district contests are climaxed by the state contest at Ohio State University in which district winners participate. As has been the custom in the past, winners will be awarded prizes by the Ohio Forestry Assn. First prize will be $200 to help defray expenses to the National Land Judging Contest.

THE DIVISION of wildlife game farm at Urbana released reports today that they have started the distribution of 1,000 ring-necked pheasants, which are surplus brood stock.

The first of the pheasants were released in the northeastern corner of the state March 31. The distribution of the surplus birds is in line with the division of wildlife policy of keeping on hand enough brood stock for wintering purposes, and an excess of birds to take care of any normal losses on the breeding farm.

The entire flock of 1,000 birds will have been released throughout the state by April 5.

According to the Ohio Division of Wildlife, many of the ponds in the Delaware Reservoir Wildlife Area now are open for public fishing.

Containing 48 ponds, the wildlife area is located north of Delaware in Delaware County. Starting from the southern end of the wildlife area the ponds are numbered from one to 48 in a northerly direction. The ponds which are managed for public fishing are: 1, 8, 9, 14, 15, 17, 18, 19, 20, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 29, 30, 32, 34, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41 and 42.

The rest of the ponds are generally too shallow for fishing, but are excellent refuge for breeding waterfowl.

THE BEST access to the wildlife area is by U. S. Route 23 either south from Marion or north from Delaware.

There is a map of the Delaware Reservoir Area available which can be obtained for 10 cents each from the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Information and Education Section, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus 12, Ohio.

Ohio pheasants won't have much privacy the first two weeks in April.

State game protectors and rural mail carriers in 42 northwestern Ohio counties will be looking for the birds in a two-week pheasant censusing project beginning April 1, according to Bill Edwards, farm game supervisor for the Ohio Wildlife Division.

Rural carriers, who are voluntarily participating in the annual census for the first time this year, will note the number of cock and hen pheasants they see while making mail deliveries. The information will be forwarded to the Wildlife Division where it will be compiled with other censusing data obtained by county game protectors.

Edwards said the object of the pheasant inventory is to learn trends in pheasant population, distribution of the species and sex ratios. He said this information is used by wildlife technicians in determining the success of existing game management projects, in establishing new pheasant programs and in recommending the length of season and daily bag limit that should be set for pheasant hunting.

THE STATE of Ohio is waging war against pollution at Lake Hope in Vinton County.

"Acid water emanating from abandoned coal mines and flowing into Big Sandy Run, the stream that feeds into Lake Hope, is threatening fish populations in the lake again this year," according to Paul Shafer, pollution abatement supervisor for the Wildlife Division.

Shafer stated that wildlife and parks division personnel are dumping lime into Big Sandy Run at the rate of one ton per day in order to neutralize the acid water. Pollution is nothing new at Lake Hope according to Shafer. He said it has been going on for as long as acid water has seeped from coal mines into Big Sandy Run.

"So far, we have been able to keep the pollution under control by making lime applications. But the situation seems to be getting a little worse each year," he added.

Shafer said the cost to the Division of Wildlife in its battle against pollution at Lake Hope has risen from $377 in 1953 to over $2000 in 1957. Total cost of the lime treatment over these years has amounted to over $5000, he added.

PART-TIME of semi-retired farmers can gain a steady income from cropland by placing it in the Conservation Reserve, Robert Davis, Ohio State University wildlife extensionist, pointed out.

He said many farmers in this category don't have the acreage, the time or the health to operate their land profitably. But with a little planning they can use the Conservation Reserve to provide an income and encourage wildlife production at the same time, he added.

Davis said the deadline is April 15 for entering contract with the federal government under the Conservation Reserve program.

Buried Ball Is Highlight Of Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The 1958 Masters tournament will be remembered for two things: Arnold Palmer's victory and the controversial case of the embedded ball.

The embedded ball was Palmer's and if the official rules committee decision had gone against him, Doug Ford and Fred Hawkins, the runners-up, might be engaging in a playoff today for the championship.

This is what happened: Palmer's test shot on the short No. 12 hole buried itself in a bank between the green and an elevated trap in the rear. Palmer argued that under the wet weather rules in effect he was entitled to a free drop. There was confusion among the officials on the scene. They said they thought he would have to play the ball from its embedded position.

Palmer hacked it out, chipped and two-putted for a five on the par-three hole. But he continued to insist he was entitled to a free drop and the officials permitted him to play a provisional ball. He chipped it up close and sank the putt for a three. But which counted, the five or the three?

Not until Palmer and his playing partner, Ken Venturi, were on the 15th airway did Allen Edwards, chairman of the Rules Committee, give them the final, official decision: a "var three instead of a double-bogey five."

Those two strokes, as it turned out, were the difference in winning and losing.

Sime-Morrow Duel Scene Quiet Now

BIG SPRING, Tex. (AP) — The scene of the Dave Sime-Bobby Morrow sprint duel was calm today.

But track fans still talked about the Duke flash and how he toppled Morrow, the Olympic champion, in a windblown 100-yard dash.

The clash of these great sprinters "made" the American Business Club relays.

The 9.6 time of big Dave was sensational considering a terrific crosswind. On a calm day he undoubtedly would have given the track bugs something to talk about. Sime holds or shares all the world's spring records.

Machen Favored To Trip Folley

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Underdog Eddie Machen is a 2-1 favorite to beat Zora Folley Wednesday night when the two top heavyweight contenders collide in a television 12-rounder.

The winner will be in a strong position for a title shot against heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Machen, 25, is the No. 1 contender. The Redding, Calif., puncher has a 24-0 record, including 16 knockouts. Folley, 27, Chandler, Ariz., is No. 2. Winner of 17 straight, he has a 38-2-1 record, including 24 kayos.

Olympic shot put champion Parry O'Brien manages a bank in Palm Springs, Calif.

Detroit Tigers Still Plagued By Pesky Losing Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The plight of the Detroit Tigers is getting desperate.

Despite threats of fines and reprimands by Manager Jack Tighe, the Tigers go right on losing.

Despite the addition of Billy Martin, supposed to inject the needed hustle in the club, the Tigers keep on losing.

Despite the vote of confidence awarded Tighe by the board of directors, the Tigers keep on losing.

They now have lost six straight exhibition games. In their last four, including Sunday's 3-0 loss at the hands of the rampaging Boston Red Sox at Sarasota, the Bengals have scored just four runs.

Their over-all record stands at 6-17. Sox right-handers Frank Sullivan and Tom Brewer held the Tigers to five hits. It was Boston's 11th victory in 12 starts.

The Cincinnati Redlegs, unbeaten in their previous seven, suffered an 8-3 defeat at Nashville, Tenn., from the Washington Senators. Brooks Lawrence was the victim. Hal Griggs held off the Redlegs until the seventh, when he was rescued by Truman Cleveland.

World Series star Lew Burdette found himself in the unusual position of heading for the showers before he could retire a batter. It happened at Fort Worth, Tex., where the Dodgers licked the Milwaukee Braves 11-5.

Burdette, who had given up just

The Circleville Herald, Monday, April 7, 1958 9
Circleville, Ohio

one hit in seven previous innings, started for the Braves and promptly was rocked by four singles, a walk and a couple of errors. Out he went. By the time the inning was over, the Dodgers had scored six runs and the game was out of reach of the world champions.

In other action, the Philadelphia Phillies topped the New York Yankees 3-2 at Columbia, S.C.; the San Francisco Giants edged the Cleveland Indians, 9-7 at San Antonio; the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Kansas City A's 5-2 at Fort Myers, Fla.; the Chicago White Sox halted the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 at Houston, and the Baltimore Orioles turned back the Chicago Cubs 7-3 at Scottsdale, Ariz.

The Phillies scored all their runs on homers. Dave Philley connected in the 12th for the winning run. Stan Lopata hit a two-run homer. Bob Schmidt singled home Whitey Lockman for San Francisco's winning run in the 10th. Roberto Clemente of the Pirates blasted a grand-slam homer in the eighth to wipe out a 2-1 Kansas City lead.

Dick Donovan pitched seven scoreless innings and hit a homer for the White Sox. The Orioles got 15 hits off five Cub pitchers.

Pitcher Harry Byrd is the heavy favorite to lead the Detroit Tiger roster. He weighs 215 pounds.

Michigan State and Michigan drew the largest single game crowd of the 1957 Big Ten football season—101,000 fans.

Billy Wilson has caught 39 touchdown passes in his seven seasons with the San Francisco 49ers.

Pickaway PTO Plans Meeting

Kurt Coons, public relations official for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Pickaway Twp. Parent-Teachers Organization scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday in the school.

The speaker's subject will deal with "the part electricity plays in the schools." Mrs. Roger May and Mrs. Nyle Huffines are in charge of the program committee.

The group also will hold election of officers.

A special feature of the evening will be presented by Mrs. Robert Mil's Science Club which will display and discuss school projects.

Accused Bank Thug Returned to Ohio

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Glenn Dolvin, who was picked up in San Diego, Calif., with $18,500 while out on bond awaiting trial here on a bank robbery charge, has been returned to Youngstown.

Youngstown detectives brought back the 31-year-old Dolvin over the weekend. He had been picked up in San Diego as a suspected drunken driver 10 days ago, and the money was found in a glove compartment of his car.

Dolvin was free on $50,000 bond pending appeal of his conviction for the $5,000 armed robbery of a Penney store near Boardman.

Indonesia Buying Red Bloc Arms

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno's government is buying jet fighters and bombers from the Communist bloc.

Indonesia sent an arms-shopping mission to Eastern Europe last December after receiving no action on its request to buy arms from Washington. A U. S. State Department spokesman said then that processing such requests "takes time."

A central government spokesman said Sunday that the Communist shipments would include an undisclosed amount of Russian MIG jet fighters and Ilyushin bombers as well as small arms.

Senators Divided On New PA System

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators are sharply divided over whether they should break with tradition and install a public address system in the Senate chamber.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) introduced a resolution last month calling for a loud-speaker system, and the Senate Rules Committee asked each of the 96 senators for his opinion.

So far, committee aides said today, replies have been received from about two-thirds of the senators. Of these, 25 were against the idea and 25 were for it. The others took no definite stand.

Revival meetings starting tonight thru April 20th starting at 7:30 p. m. each evening. Special music will be presented each night. The public is invited to attend.

Pvt. James E. Conrad has been promoted to PFC in the U. S. Marine Corps. Conrad is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Conrad, 624 E. Mound St.

He has completed basic and combat training and has attended Military Police School. While on M.P. duty he served as guard at the U. S. Naval Station in San Diego.

In his spare time Conrad has studied Business Administration in a Marine school and is now in Marine personnel.

His address is: PFC James E. Conrad, 16-905-17; Marine Barracks; U. S. Naval Station; San Diego 36, Calif.

Pvt. Andrew N. Starkey, 18, was home recently for a short visit with his parents. He took basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Starkey, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. Starkey, Williamsport, transferred to the 82nd Airborne Division, where he completed 10 weeks of paratrooper training at Ft. Bragg, N. C. On March 15 Starkey graduated from airborne training and received his wings after making eight successful airplane jumps.

Starkey is stationed at Ft. Lee, Va., where he will receive special airborne training to qualify for the Rangers. He entered the Army in September 1957. Starkey is a 1957 graduate of Williamsport High School.

William L. Cramblit, apprentice petty officer third class, graduated March 21 from Recruit Training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Cramblit is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crawford, Route 3. Apprentice petty officers are chosen from the ranks of the seaman recruits to assist company commanders. The selection is based on individual aptitude and leadership qualities.

JAMES W. ADKINS, seaman, USN, took part in a major Atlantic Fleet amphibious exercise aboard the tactical command ship USS Northampton during March, off the Southeastern Atlantic Coast.

Adkins formerly resided at 532 1/2 E. Union St. The operation involved 60 ships, 200 aircraft and 40,000 Navy and Marine Corps personnel.

Ingenuity was the device most used by Specialist Second Class James I. Reed, Jr., during a recent Arctic survival course conducted on the frozen ground near North Manitoba, Canada.

Reed, of Chesapeake, the son of Mrs. Goldie Reed, 137 Cottage Hill, Circleville, arrived in Canada last February from an assignment at Ft. Knox, Ky. He entered the Army in 1953.

Specialist Reed, whose wife, Hedy, and father live in Chesapeake, is regularly assigned as master mechanic in the field maintenance shop of the Army's First Arctic Test Center, Ft. Churchill, Canada. Reed is a 1953 graduate of Chesapeake High School.

Army PFC Marvin L. Amerine recently completed the M-123 tank transporter driving and operation course conducted by the 51st Ordnance Group in Kaiserslautern, Germany.

Amerine is the son of Mrs. Iona Haynes, Laurelville. He is a truck driver in the 558th Ordnance Company of the group's 81st Battalion. Amerine entered the Army in January 1957 and received basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky.

He was stationed at Ft. Riley, Kan., before arriving in Europe last November. Amerine, 24, attended Gibsonville High School.

PFC HARLEY EVANS is stationed with Headquarters Service Company of the 370th Armored Infantry Battalion, located in Munich, Germany.

Evans and his wife, Linda, who is with her husband in Munich visited John Wardell recently. He is stationed in Frankfurt, Germany. Wardell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wardell. He graduated from Williamsport High School.

While in Frankfurt they met Earl Christopher, also a Williamsport High School graduate. They visited Bill Evans in Mannheim, Germany. Bill is from Pickaway Twp.

Both Evans boys won the coveted Bob Bowsher Trophy. Harley in 1952 and Bill in 1953. Wardell was also a top basketball player for Williamsport.

Sgt. Lawrence R. Dowden recently completed the III Corps Academy's advanced non-commissioned officer course at Ft. Hood, Texas.

Dowden is the son of Lawrence F. Dowden, Route 2. He is assigned to the 142nd Signal Battalion's Company A. While in school he received instruction in leadership of units, map reading and other military subjects.

Dowden entered the Army in 1955 and was last stationed in Germany. The sergeant, whose mother, Mrs. Floyd E. Keller, lives in Grove City, is a 1954 graduate of Circleville High School.

Soviet Envoy Heckled at Boston Talk

BOSTON (AP)—In a speech interrupted by hecklers, a Soviet diplomat asserted Sunday night, "We are confident in the final victory of the ideas of communism."

Arkady A. Sobolev, permanent representative of the Soviet Union to the United Nations, continued his speech despite loud hecklers in the audience and a picket line outside the building.

Seven policemen on duty inside the hall kept busy trying to quiet the hecklers and ejecting the more persistent ones. Other policemen outside kept the picketers moving so they wouldn't block the entrance.

Five persons were taken to a police station as a result of the disturbance at Jordan Hall. Three later were released. Police said they would charge the other two with disturbing a public assembly.

Sobolev spoke at Ford Hall Forum, now in its 50th year of public discussions. Its directors claim it is the oldest forum of public expression in America.

Sobolev said in his speech: "We are confident in the final victory of the ideas of communism, but we have never imposed and we do not intend to impose the Socialist way of life, our ideology on other countries by force."

Pickaway PTO Plans Meeting

Kurt Coons, public relations official for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Pickaway Twp. Parent-Teachers Organization scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday in the school.

The speaker's subject will deal with "the part electricity plays in the schools." Mrs. Roger May and Mrs. Nyle Huffines are in charge of the program committee. The group also will hold election of officers.

A special feature of the evening will be presented by Mrs. Robert Mill's Science Club which will display and discuss school projects.

Accused Bank Thug Returned to Ohio

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Glenn Dolvin, who was picked up in San Diego, Calif., with $18,500 while out on bond awaiting trial here on a bank robbery charge, has been returned to Youngstown.

Youngstown detectives brought back the 31-year-old Dolvin over the weekend. He had been picked up in San Diego as a suspected drunken driver 10 days ago, and the money was found in a glove compartment of his car.

Dolvin was free on $50,000 bond pending appeal of his conviction for the $5,000 armed robbery of a Penney store near Boardman.

Indonesia Buying Red Bloc Arms

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno's government is buying jet fighters and bombers from the Communist bloc.

Indonesia sent an arms-shopping mission to Eastern Europe last December after receiving no action on its request to buy arms from Washington. A U. S. State Department spokesman said then that processing such requests "takes time."

A central government spokesman said Sunday that the Communist shipments would include an undisclosed amount of Russian MIG jet fighters and Ilyushin bombers as well as small arms.

Senators Divided On New PA System

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators are sharply divided over whether they should break with tradition and install a public address system in the Senate chamber.

Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) introduced a resolution last month calling for a loud-speaker system, and the Senate Rules Committee asked each of the 96 senators for his opinion.

So far, committee aides said today, replies have been received from about two-thirds of the senators. Of these, 25 were against the idea and 25 were for it. The others took no definite stand.

Revival meetings starting tonight thru April 20th starting at 7:30 p. m. each evening. Special music will be presented each night. The public is invited to attend.

Our Girls and Boys IN SERVICE

Pvt. James E. Conrad has been promoted to PFC in the U. S. Marine Corps. Conrad is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Conrad, 624 E. Mound St.

He has completed basic and combat training and has attended Military Police School. While on M.P. duty he served as guard at the U. S. Naval Station in San Diego.

In his spare time Conrad has studied Business Administration in a Marine school and is now in Marine personnel.

His address is: PFC James E. Conrad, 16-905-17; Marine Barracks; U. S. Naval Station; San Diego 36, Calif.

Pvt. Andrew N. Starkey, 18, was home recently for a short visit with his parents. He took basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Starkey, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy N. Starkey, Williamsport, transferred to the 82nd Airborne Division, where he completed 10 weeks of paratrooper training at Ft. Bragg, N. C. On March 15 Starkey graduated from airborne training and received his wings after making eight successful airplane jumps.

Starkey is stationed at Ft. Lee, Va., where he will receive special airborne training to qualify for the Rangers. He entered the Army in September 1957. Starkey is a 1957 graduate of Williamsport High School.

William L. Cramblit, apprentice petty officer third class, graduated March 21 from Recruit Training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

Cramblit is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Crawford, Route 3. Apprentice petty officers are chosen from the ranks of the seaman recruits to assist company commanders. The selection is based on individual aptitude and leadership qualities.

JAMES W. ADKINS, seaman, USN, took part in a major Atlantic Fleet amphibious exercise aboard the tactical command ship USS Northampton during March, off the Southeastern Atlantic Coast.

Adkins formerly resided at 532 1/2 E. Union St. The operation involved 60 ships, 260 aircraft and 40,000 Navy and Marine Corps personnel.

Ingenuity was the device most used by Specialist Second Class James L. Reed, Jr., during a recent Arctic survival course conducted on the frozen ground near North Manitoba, Canada.

Reed, of Chesapeake, the son of Mrs. Goldie Reed, 137 Cottage Hill, Circleville, arrived in Canada last February from an assignment at Ft. Knox, Ky. He entered the Army in 1953.

Specialist Reed, whose wife, Hedy, and father live in Chesapeake, is regularly assigned as master mechanic in the field maintenance shop of the Army's First Arctic Test Center, Ft. Churchill, Canada. Reed is a 1953 graduate of Chesapeake High School.

Army PFC Marvin L. Amerine recently completed the M-123 tank transporter driving and operation course conducted by the 51st Ord-

PVT. ANDREW N. STARKEY

nance Group in Kaiserslautern, Germany.

Amerine is the son of Mrs. Iona Haynes, Laurelville. He is a truck driver in the 558th Ordnance Company of the group's 81st Battalion. Amerine entered the Army in January 1957 and received basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky.

He was stationed at Ft. Riley, Kan., before arriving in Europe last November. Amerine, 24, attended Gibsonville High School.

PFC HARLEY EVANS is stationed with Headquarters Service Company of the 370th Armored Infantry Battalion, located in Munich, Germany.

Evans and his wife, Linda, who is with her husband in Munich visited John Wardell recently. He is stationed in Frankfurt, Germany. Wardell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wardell. He graduated from Williamsport High School.

While in Frankfurt they met Earl Christopher, also a Williamsport High School graduate. They visited Bill Evans in Mannheim, Germany. Bill is from Pickaway Twp.

Both Evans boys won the coveted Bob Bowsher Trophy. Harley in 1952 and Bill in '53. Wardell was also a top basketballer for Williamsport.

Sgt. Lawrence R. Dowden recently completed the III Corps Academy's advanced non-commissioned officer course at Ft. Hood, Texas.

Dowden is the son of Lawrence F. Dowden, Route 2. He is assigned to the 142nd Signal Battalion's Company A. While in school he received instruction in leadership of units, map reading and other military subjects.

Dowden entered the Army in 1955 and was last stationed in Germany. The sergeant, whose mother, Mrs. Floyd E. Keller, lives in Grove City, is a 1954 graduate of Circleville High School.

Soviet Envoy Heckled at Boston Talk

BOSTON (AP)—In a speech interrupted by hecklers, a Soviet diplomat asserted Sunday night, "We are confident in the final victory of the ideas of communism."

Arkady A. Sobolev, permanent representative of the Soviet Union to the United Nations, continued his speech despite loud hecklers in the audience and a picket line outside the building.

Seven policemen on duty inside the hall kept busy trying to quiet the hecklers and ejecting the more persistent ones. Other policemen outside kept the picketers moving so they wouldn't block the entrance.

Five persons were taken to a police station as a result of the disturbance at Jordan Hall. Three later were released. Police said they would charge the other two with disturbing a public assembly.

Sobolev spoke at Ford Hall Forum, now in its 50th year of public discussions. Its directors claim it is the oldest forum of public expression in America.

Sobolev said in his speech: "We are confident in the final victory of the ideas of communism, but we have never imposed and we do not intend to impose the Socialist way of life, our ideology on other countries by force."

Ancient Paper Is Found Here

Another ancient newspaper was found here when W. H. Strawser, 403 E. Franklin St., was remodeling a mantle at his home.

The edition, dated June 23, 1888, is entitled "The New York Fire-side Companion". It is labeled as a journal of instructive and entertaining literature.

The eight page copy deals mostly with serial type intrigue and mystery stories. Other than a faded yellow color, the paper is in good condition.

However, the small type print used probably would cause vast criticism from modern day readers.

Polly Bergen Story Subject

Polly Bergen, whom Circleville claims, will be the subject of a picture story in the April 29 issue of Look magazine, due on newsstands here April 15.

Polly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Burgin, 595 N. Court St., is a famed television personality. The title of the story in the upcoming Look magazine is, "She Can't Make Up Her Mind".

Business Down, Costs Increase

Many persons are commenting on a current economic phenomenon — a rising cost of living at a time of lagging employment and consumer purchases.

This would be a phenomenon indeed, but the economic journals are asserting emphatically that it isn't so. The idea of the phenomenon is based on government reports purporting to show the cost of living from month to month. Economic writers say these reports do not reflect the true picture.

Consumers Price Index includes both goods and services. Many of the services, which had lagged behind the pricing structure, lately are catching up. While that is occurring, however, some items in the index have headed downward. Government reports have not yet reflected that.

Purchasing agents know they can buy many items at lower prices than last year. Several mercantile houses have already announced price cuts to take effect over the coming months. Manufacturers are abandoning "fair trade" pricing which had put rigid high prices on many of their products.

All across the land enterprises are cutting out the fat, reducing costs where possible and putting themselves in shape for competitive pricing to spur sluggish consumer demand. That is the traditional pattern when slowness hits the economy.

So in this case at least nothing new at all has been found under the sun.

Keep Junk from Outer Space

A recent quip for which a long life can safely be predicted is the one tossed off the other day by the Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Thomas D. White. "Space," said he, "must not become a flying junkyard."

By that he meant the prospect of satellites, space platforms, and the like, all circling in their orbits, uncoordinated by central authority. He proposed a central management of civilian authority for this country. Doubtless he visualizes an international pact, too, on space and space vehicles.

If the topic is taken up seriously at any "summit meeting" of the near future, the discussion can be only a starter. Science itself has yet to unlock many a door in secret realms of space.

Sometimes a catch phrase can be very effective. "Flying junkyard" calls up a wonderful picture of unlikely objects of all kinds and shapes zipping along, crossing each other's paths—even, by the ultimate off-chance, colliding as many natural space-travelers have done through the eons.

The general is right. Man must try to make sure that space remains as orderly as rocketeer Wernher von Braun describes it as being. "Everything in space," he says "obeys the laws of physics. If man obeys those laws, space will treat him kindly."

General White's epithet and Dr. von Braun's remarks are of a piece, and worth remembering.

Is it because he is trying to catch up that the man who took longest to go through school as a rule drives fastest?

Executives Prefer Nonfiction

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That if you suspect most business executives are illiterate, you couldn't be more wrong. A Harvard survey found the most successful executives were the greatest readers — of nonfiction books.

That comedian George De Witt tells of the man who, accused of wife abandonment, told the judge, "Your honor, if you knew my wife you'd know I'm no deserter. I'm a refugee!"

That there are more life insurance policies in effect in this country (over 239 million) than there are persons—173 million.

That if you coat your bread with the average amount of butter you will consume nine pounds of this dairy product in 1958.

That those who say vegetarians, such as the late George Bernard Shaw, are weaklings overlook the fact that the gorilla doesn't eat meat.

That a slot machine in Havana bears this pleading sign: "Don't slug me."

That in the 18th century theater, spectators showed their disapproval by tossing a candle on the stage. If the audience threw enough candles, down came the curtain.

That here's a way to test how smart your wife is. Ask her how many of the 65 cuts of beef she can name.

That if you have a handicap that bothers you, consider Melvin Joseph Maas, a retired Marine major general and former congressman, who travels 175,000 miles and makes between 300 and 500 speeches a year. He's totally blind.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IT'S NOT EASY to make people laugh nowadays. George Axelrod, author of "The Seven Year Itch," explained the predicament to Mike Wallace: "Life itself is so satirical, it's hard to satirize it... with buffoons way up high in government and the Russians making us look idiotic in some ways. In a grotesque, horrible fashion, life itself seems to have become pretty much of a joke. And you can't make a joke on a joke."

Myself, I think Axelrod is deliberately sounding too much like the spokesman for the "beat generation"—but his words merit earnest consideration.

Lady went to see "West Side Story," the hit musical about teen-age gangs in New York, and pooh-poohed, "What's so original about this one? It's just Booth Tarkington's 'Seventeen' with knives!"

Tough luck for that young cannibal who was kicked out of high school. They caught him buttering up his teachers.

The World Today

By James Marlow

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Cocky Nikita Khrushchev is doing his best to make Americans feel inferior. Ten years ago—if he had talked the way he's talking now—he'd have been laughed at. Not now.

In those 10 years the Soviet Union has given such a stunning demonstration of its scientific and industrial progress that Premier Khrushchev's boasts have to be listened to with respect.

Only a few months ago—in a TV interview filmed in Moscow for display in this country—Khrushchev told Americans: "Someday your grandchildren will live under socialism."

His latest jibe at Americans came Monday during his tour of Hungary. He said Americans are good people but destined for second place in the race for world economic leadership.

He said: "Now there are only two countries that compete with one another economically, the Soviet Union and the United States of America. England, France, Germany and the so-called advanced capitalist countries have been left far behind."

And he added that in a short time the U.S.S.R. will take the lead.

While the Soviet successes have been a good to this country to do better, each new Khrushchev boast, followed by a new sign of Soviet progress, cannot but have some effect on American allies abroad.

Ten years ago, when this country still had a monopoly on the atomic bomb and was the undisputed industrial and scientific leader of the world, West Europeans had no reason to doubt their best bet was to line up with the United States.

But since then the Soviets have developed the atomic and hydrogen bombs, demonstrated additionally their tremendous scientific and industrial progress by shooting missile-powered satellites aloft, and expanded economically. In those 10 years too, the Red Chinese took over all of mainland China and the Communists grabbed off half of Viet Nam. Therefore Khrushchev's boasts now force the West to listen.

Khrushchev has said other things to shake the West's confidence in itself.

"We shall bury you," he told Western diplomats at a reception. He told West German Chancellor Adenauer: "We Communists will rule the world."

He gave a chilling answer to anyone who thought the Soviets might abandon communism in their search for prosperity. He told correspondents in Yugoslavia: "If anyone believes our smiles involve abandoning the teaching of Marx, Engels and Lenin, he deceives himself badly. Those who wait for that will wait until the shrimp learns to whistle."

He's doing his boasting now—about the coming superiority of the Soviet economy—at a time when the United States is in a recession, with nearly 5,200,000 unemployed, and American allies wondering whether it will get worse.

Kill Poison Ivy Now

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

This is a good time to start thinking about poison ivy and a good time to start doing something about it, too.

Leaves of the young poison ivy plant are tender during early spring, so that it is easier to kill the plant with chemicals.

You can identify poison ivy by its leaves which grow in "threes." The berry-like fruit of the plant is white. Other ivy plants, the non-poisonous kind, have blackish purple berries and leaves which are clustered in growths of fives.

To get rid of the poisonous plants near your home — they grow just about anywhere — you can place a light layer of calcium chloride over the entire plant and its roots.

Or, if you wish, you can use some of the newer chemicals to spray the ivy away. Among chemicals which will destroy ivy are Ammate-X and 2, 4-D plus 2, 4, 5-T. If there are no other plants around which you want to protect, you can use an even more powerful chemical, 2, 4, 5-D.

These chemicals not only destroy the leaves and tops of the plants, but the roots as well. Another method of destroying the plants is to dig them up and pull out all the roots. This method, however, should be used only in the late fall or winter, when the plants are inactive. Even then you must wear heavy leather gloves and be careful not to leave any parts of your body exposed to the plant.

Once you have killed the plant, there still is one more precaution you must take. Pull it out and bury it deeply. Don't burn it. The smoke from a burning poison ivy plant sometimes is just as hazardous as the plant itself.

The smoke could infect several of your neighbors. I'm afraid you wouldn't be the most popular person in the community after they found out who was responsible.

It's a little early in the year to give you advice on how to treat poison ivy. I'm sure you would forget my recommendations by the time you might have use for them. But I'll discuss this subject very thoroughly when the weather gets a little warmer.

Answer: The memory is sometimes slightly altered by shock treatments. However, if they are needed, this should be no bar against taking them.

Athens Countian To Serve Out Fine

ATHENS (AP)—Virgil Collins, 40, who surrendered to city, county and state officers early Saturday, has been fined $176.40 in Gloucester mayor's court.

Mayor Wilbur R. Balderson of nearby Gloucester said Collins, arrested Monday, pleaded guilty to resisting arrest, threatening his family and being under the influence of alcohol.

Balderson said Collins was unable to pay the fine and must serve one day in Gloucester's jail for each $3 he owes.

Lowell Ferguson Guest For Child Study League

Lowell Ferguson was guest speaker for the Child Study League of Williamsport when it met in the home of Mrs. William Keller, Wednesday evening. Mr. Ferguson used for his topic "Mother is a Person." He stated "to style your hair you must first consider these things: the hair line, the shape of the face and personal features."

"Not everyone can wear the same styles. The most common problem of hair is being too oily or too much dandruff. The scalp has to be treated. Shampoo as needed, once a week or more. Some shampoo helps get rid of the oil. The hair roots need to be tightened, you can do this by pulling the hair gently."

A RED CHIFFON evening gown is Actress Sally Forrest's choice for formal wear. Neckline provides for arm cover-up.

You Look Glamorous In An Evening Gown?

"Nothing," said a suave man-about-town, who's a society party-planner, "is more effective than a red evening gown."

Since he made the remark, we've been studying women at dinner dances and balls. We're convinced he's right.

A red evening gown is the most! It's bright and brilliant, makes black, white and pastel gowns, no matter how elegant, fade out.

A dress that's red and white — we've seen several — is even more effective. One was white with a crimson stole. Another had a white top with a bold red overskirt.

The truth of the matter is that most women don't look as glamorous as they should in dress-up clothes. They lack flair and, surprisingly, pay little attention to whether or not the evening gown's style becomes their figure.

Very few women, for example, look their best in a completely strapless gown. Often little rolls of fat, squeezed up by a waist cincher, appear near the under arm. They're not pretty. Or a strapless gown may focus attention on rounded shoulders, too-fat or too-thin arms.

A gown with off-shoulder sleeves, or at least a suggestion of them, camouflages arms and usually covers up unsightly little puffs of flesh.

You don't have to be bare to be beautiful in a formal. Liz Taylor stole the spotlight at a recent dance in a dress that was completely covered-up with a high Chinese neckline, a slim figure-hugging skirt.

Gloves add a dressy look to evening wear, but not spectacular gloves—white kid ones are the debutante's favorite. They stay on all evening, are removed only to eat. Long or short, they look lovely, give a costume that all-important finishing touch.

When you are baking popovers, choose a recipe that includes same butter or margarine; this inclusion yields a slightly richer hot bread than the fatless formula.

Some Simple Solutions To Problems of Beauty

Chapped lips are a problem, writes one reader.

Well, they needn't be! Use a lip pomade to keep 'em soft and smooth.

Pomades work like magic. An hour or two after you've smoothed them on, lips look lovely again. Feel lovely, too.

What to do about fine hair that looks skimpy? Wash it often—even every other day. There's nothing like a shampoo to fluff out fine hair, make it look thicker and more luxuriant.

Wondering how to keep your hairbrush free of hairs? Invest in one of those tiny wire rakes designed just for this purpose. Run it through the brush and all hairs will be caught on its prongs.

There's a similar gadget for combs. It's a tiny brush you can use to scrub between the comb's teeth and remove soil.

Can't keep powder puffs clean? Try using a rubber sponge instead of puff for powdering. The sponge helps powder cling to the skin and is easily rinsed out in soap and water.

Like to know what to do with a perfume or cologne fragrance that's not exactly a favorite? Instead of using it on your person, pour it off (a few drops at a time) in lingerie rinse water. It will give a light and pleasing scent to underthings.

What to do with old mascara brushes? Clean and keep several. Use them to brush brows into line, to brush petroleum jelly (it provides lustre) on brows to scrub away dirt that's marring the sparkle of jewelry, to separate lashes that have just got a coating of mascara.

Mrs. Melvin Leasure, 116 W. Water St., entertained with a Birthday party Saturday honoring her son Gary on his 10th birthday. Balloons and a paper rabbit made up the decorations.

Contests were presented with prizes being awarded to Larry and Virginia Whit. Other guests were Patty Quince, Patty and Jerry Cupp, Steven Thompson, Betty and Ronnie Stevens, Gary and Denny Hupp, Rickey Sims, Rickey Congrove and Diana Pohl.

Mrs. Leasure was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Walter Evans.

What To Wear Over, Under Those New Sack Fashions

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor
Girls who think they can shed their girdles when they step into a chemise are due for a shock. Unless you really want to look like a sack of potatoes in your new spring outfit, you will do well to take extra care to have the right underpinnings.

In order to look right, say designers, the chemise dress must be carefully fitted through the shoulders and bust and at the hip-line. If it is properly designed, it isn't just cut like a flour sack, but actually requires more skillful cutting and shaping than a fitted dress.

Since the new styles touch the body at only a few places, the body has to be under proper control at those spots.

You won't need a waist-cincher this spring, it's true, but you will need a different kind of bra and girdle. The bandeau with rounded cups is the most popular bra for wear with the new dresses, which do not look well if the bosom is exaggerated.

Since the most popular style of chemise tapers toward the hemline and clings to the thighs, it is important to have an unbroken line from hips to hem. This calls for a long panty girdle, reaching to just above the knees. This garment is much in demand these days, since it gives a smooth line to the thighs and is right for wear both with sack dresses and with slacks.

The general idea, say the corset and bra manufacturers, is to modify the bustline, ease the waistline, narrow the hipline and control the thighs. They emphasize the fact, however, that there is no reason to flatten the bosom, as did girls of the flapper era, when the chemise made its first bow.

The same silhouette follows through in corsets, which also are increasingly popular for wear with the new unfitted fashions, since they give the figure a smooth line. Newest corsets are the panty corsets, mostly all-elastic pull-on styles for youthful figures. The strapless corset, either panty or regular style, also is ideal for wear with the new draped chiffon evening sheaths, due for much attention this spring and summer.

The return of the chemise brings back the jewelry styles of the 1920s, too.

If your taste runs to sack silhouettes for spring, you undoubtedly will want ropes and ropes of beads in all lengths and all colors, to add the correct finishing touch.

Some of the new flapper necklaces dangle almost to the knees, and are worn with at least half-dozen others in varying lengths. After all, when your dress is not only unfitted but also untrimmed, you have to do something to brighten up the general effect.

Among the bead ropes available in shops all over the country this spring are everything from 120-inch ropes to chokers, with all the lengths between provided for. The 30-inch rope is in greatest demand, but usually is worn with several other stands of beads in varying lengths.

These necklaces come in every color of the rainbow, in fake sapphires, pearls, amethysts, topaz, turquoise, rubies, emeralds and rhinestones. Some combine several stones.

There also are long lariat chains, which may be worn in combination with the bead ropes.

To complete the picture, the girl who is up on her flapper style wears earrings to match—not any shy, retiring little clips, either, but big, bold clusters or long dangling chandelier-type earrings.

And she probably will use a couple of necklaces to wind around her wrists to make multiple-strand bracelets.

WASHINGTON—Dear Mr. American Taxpayer:

If you are facing another April 15 income tax deadline in the belief that you're paying the highest taxes in the world, cheer up. You're probably right, but things could be worse.

Americans are hopeful that Congress will reduce taxes this year, but even if this happy event does not occur, you still are better off taxwise, in many ways, than the poor stiff who pays taxes abroad.

In Formosa, for example, the Nationalist Chinese taxpayer pays taxes on all salaries and wages over $37 a year. In the United States, a single man doesn't pay a tax on his first $670.

In the United States, there is a $600 exemption for each minor child. In West Germany, the exemption is only $143; in Great Britain, $280 to $420 (with no exemption allowed if the child has an income of $238 a year); in France, $12 a year for each of the first two children and $36 for each additional child, and in the Philippines, $300.

The pattern is the same elsewhere. A survey of income taxes in foreign countries revealed that while in many respects American taxes are higher, in some they are lower.

A comparison of rates paid in the U. S. with those in various foreign nations provides a good idea of the situation existing.

In the United States, a single person does not pay tax on the first $670, while married persons begin paying taxes at $1,340 a year. The first $2,000 of taxable income is taxed at 20 per cent.

The rate rises to 91 per cent on taxable income in excess of $200,000, with an overall rate limitation of 87 per cent of taxable income. However, a word of caution here. No one actually pays 87 per cent. After deductions and exemptions are taken, it's usually considerably less.

In Great Britain, the individual tax ranges from 11 1/4 per cent on the first $168 of taxable income to 92 1/2 per cent on income in excess of $42,000 a year. In Canada, the graduated tax ranges from 13 per cent on the first $1,000 of taxable income to 78 per cent on taxable income in excess of $400,000.

In New Zealand, the levy is 15 per cent on the first $280 of taxable income. The rates are increased by 1 1/4 per cent for each additional $280 of taxable income, up to $10,080, when the tax is $3,715. Everything in excess of $10,080 is taxed at 60 per cent.

In West Germany, the tax varies from 30 per cent to 55 per cent. The maximum rate was 70 per cent up to 1953.

In Argentina, the basic rate is seven per cent of taxable income, plus a surtax ranging from two per cent on taxable income over $267 a year to $40,400 plus 43 per cent on taxable income in excess of $107,000 a year.

In Cuba, the individual income tax ranges from one per cent to 30 1/2 per cent, depending on the taxpayer's source and amount of income.

In Haiti, an income tax is payable on all net profits and revenue realized in Haiti from labor, real and personal property, commerce and industry, agriculture, salaries, interest and other periodical gains. The rate changes from five per cent on amounts up to $3,000 a year to 30 per cent on amounts over $40,000.

In Israel, the tax on assessable income, after allowing deductions, is progressive up to 50 per cent.

In Italy, an income tax must be paid by every individual who has any income whatsoever. Its rates vary in accordance with the source of income, from a minimum of four per cent on salaries and pensions of government personnel to a maximum of approximately 28 per cent on income derived from capital investments.

In Japan, the top bracket income tax rate is 70 per cent for net incomes of more than $138,888 a year. In Panama, the rates range from two per cent on net incomes of $900 to $2,400 a year; two and a half per cent on the excess up to $3,600; 31 per cent on the excess up to $1,000,000 and 34 per cent thereafter.

In the Soviet Union, an income tax is levied on laborers, employees and persons occupied in the "free professions." A graduated tax is imposed on unmarried persons and childless couples or couples with less than two children, unless a lack of capacity can be proved. Exceptions are made for students under 25, those in active military service, and their wives.

In Spain, there is a tax of eight to 15 per cent on the profits arising from wages, salaries, and the fees of lawyers, physicians, engineers and artists. The first $367 a year is exempted.

The Spanish income tax is applied to all people having an income above $3,060 a year, ranging from 2 1/2 per cent on income of $3,061 to $3,825 a year to 33 per cent for incomes of more than $30,600 a year. The tax on profits is deducted from the income levy.

Of course, if you want to escape it all, there is Bermuda, where there are no income, estate or inheritance taxes, and the Bahama islands, where there are no income taxes on individuals or companies, no taxes on dividends and no gift taxes of any nature.

Pity, most of all, the poor taxpayer in Bolivia. If he has any money, it isn't worth much, and he still pays a tax on it. The Boliviano is valued at 8.825 to the American dollar.

ANOTHER BRIDEY MURPHY?—Mrs. Patricia Williams, 29, of Louisville, Ky., stated during a hypnotic trance that she once was a young Confederate sergeant who was killed in battle 96 years ago. Mrs. Williams holds a letter she received from a library in Shreveport, La.—center of her "previous life." The letter was unable to confirm parts of her story. Her strange story parallels the famed Bridey Murphy case in Denver. There a housewife allegedly was transformed, under hypnosis, to a colleen living in Ireland 200 years ago. (International)

3 Officers Accused in Boy's Death

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Cincinnati policeman and two park patrolmen have been charged with murder in the shooting a week ago of a 14-year-old Negro boy. But the victim's father said he did not read the warrant which was filed in his name.

"I didn't read the warrant. I thought it was a citation or something," Abe Savage Sr., told newsmen Monday night.

Earlier, Cincinnati Patrolman Raymond Turner and Park Patrolmen Louis Meiners and Norbert Tieke had been arrested on murder warrants signed by Savage in connection with the death of his son, Abe.

The boy was shot to death March 31 as he fled from policemen in a wild chase through city streets and into Eden Park. Police had started chasing the boy when he drove through a red traffic light. Officers said he refused to stop and went through three police barricades.

Eleven shots were fired. Officers said they thought they were chasing a stolen car. The car was owned by the boy's father.

The elder Savage said he signed the warrants against the officers on the advice of his attorney as "the only way to bring them to court."

Park Police Capt. Emmet Lyons said Meiners and Tieke would be allowed to continue work pending disposition of the charges.

Police Chief Stanley Schrotel said no action would be taken against Turner until he has an opportunity to study the case.

Couple Absolved In Woman's Death

CLEVELAND (AP)—Lie detector tests have absolved a man and a woman who were brought back from Joplin, Mo., for questioning in the slaying of their landlady.

Police said Monday night that Miles P. LaCaze, 28, and Mrs. Elsie Dombrowski, 33-year-old divorcee, had been absolved from any connection with the death of Mrs. Joan Nagy, 70, was found in the basement of her apartment building here April 1, the day after LaCaze and Mrs. Dombrowski left by car for California.

Trust To Set Up Scholarship Fund

ASHTABULA (AP)—Scholarships for Ashtabula County high school graduates will be provided by proceeds from the $1,300,000 estate of George J. Record, industrialist who died in 1920.

Probate Judge Philip Terry has approved establishment of a George J. Record scholarship foundation, ending 21 years of litigation over stringent provisions in Record's will about use of the money.

Trustees estimated that the foundation would be able to grant seven scholarships a year without drawing on the fund.

Ex-Cop Sentenced

ZANESVILLE (AP)—A former policeman here who was convicted of robbing a service station last month will go to Mansfield Reformatory. He is Frederick Harter, 25, sentenced Monday.

500-Pound Bear Offered Just for Free

LOGAN, Ohio (AP)—Been looking for a pet lately to keep the little kiddies happy?

A 500-pound bear, for example? Then call Marvin Nungester, Hocking County game protector. He has one for you.

The big lumbering animal (he's six feet tall when he stands up) has been hanging around Ash Cave Park about 15 miles southwest of here at least since last Thursday when a fire station operator spotted him.

Nungester said the bear probably was a pet who simply grew too big for the owners to keep. The bear has chain marks around his neck.

He's a pleasant beast says Nungester. Over the weekend an estimated 2,000 curious spectators came to see the bear. Some of them gave him candy, petted him and even put a rope over his neck. Bruin just takes it all in.

The bear is also shrewd, says the game protector. He's been keeping pretty close to the Wesley Chapel Road just off Ohio 374 apparently because that's where he's been getting food from the onlookers.

Nungester says he's been trying to find a home for the bear but that no one seems to want the animal, not even the Columbus Zoo. If a home can't be found soon, Nungester says, the beast will have to be destroyed.

And that would be a shame, the game protector said. He's such a pleasant bear.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug counter.

FUGITIVES FROM THE FBI

(In co-operation with J. Edgar Hoover, FBI Director, this newspaper is running a series of descriptive articles on criminals wanted by the FBI.)

RICHARD WILLIAM ARNDT is being sought by the FBI for a crime on a Government reservation and as a deserter. While a non-commissioned officer in the U. S. Air Force, Arndt is alleged to have rented an automobile in Albuquerque, N. M., in May, 1955. It was found later abandoned in Denver, Col.

The wanted man is also alleged to have cashed checks in the amount of $50 drawn on the Albuquerque National Bank at the Kirtland Air Force Base Post Exchange in May, 1955. All of these checks were returned marked "account closed."

Arndt was charged with a crime on a Government reservation in an indictment returned by a Federal Grand Jury at Albuquerque on March 9, 1956. On May 14, 1955, he absented himself from the Kirtland Air Force Base and has been declared a deserter by the USAF.

The fugitive, who uses the alias Richard W. Arndt, has worked as laborer, duplicating device operator, press operator, soil laboratory technician and flight engineer technician. He reportedly may have suicidal tendencies.

DESCRIPTION: Age, 34; Born, Pueblo, Col.; Height, 6 feet 2 inches; Weight, 205 to 227; Build, heavy; Hair, brown; Eyes, brown; Complexion, ruddy. Has hair mole on left cheek, large scar on right side of neck, 1/2-inch scar on left middle finger, 1 x 1-inch scar on right leg and 4-inch scar on right knee.

INFORMATION concerning fugitive should be telephoned to the nearest FBI office.

Judge Lists Usual Blunders Which Can Cause Accidents

"A person drives as he lives!" In those words Judge Sterling Lamb of Circleville Municipal Court today pointed out to motorists that irresponsible driving is a tip-off to the driver's true character.

Judge Lamb made the statement as he discussed the current Defensive Driving program of the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee and the National Safety Council. This program is part of the nationwide "Back the Attack on Traffic Accidents" campaign, aimed at making 1958 the decisive year for traffic safety.

"My many years in traffic court have convinced me that there's not much to be said for the theory that getting behind the wheel of a car can turn a moral individual into a conscienceless lawbreaker,"

Judge Lamb said. "What it does seem to do is remove the inhibitions of the irresponsible person and let his true anti-social instincts come to the fore."

JUDGE Lamb believes there can be no hope for a consistent reduction in traffic accidents until drivers learn to accept their responsibilities in traffic. He said these responsibilities include the following: to be a skilled driver, to know and obey all traffic laws, to do everything possible to compensate for the unsafe acts of other drivers or pedestrians.

"This is what we mean when we speak of defensive driving," he said. "And the person who isn't a defensive driver has no business behind the wheel of an automobile."

Judge Lamb stressed the importance of anticipating the other fellow's errors. Many accidents could be avoided, he said, if drivers would keep a constant lookout for the mistakes of others. In this way they would preclude dangerous situations in time to do something about them.

He listed the following driving blunders as the ones most likely to cause trouble:

Failure to heed a stop sign, making a left-hand turn from a right-hand lane, failure to signal a turn, stopping suddenly, trying to pass on a curve or in a no-passing zone, suddenly swerving over the center line, pulling out from the curb into traffic without warning and weaving dangerously through traffic.

Hats Modeled At Wayne PTO

Modeling of Easter hats was the highlight at the regular meeting of Wayne Twp. Parent Teacher Organization last Thursday evening. Winners in the youth class were Kathi Easter, prettiest; Theresa Mallet, most fantastic, and Patty Kilian, the ugliest. Adult class winners were Mrs. William Easter, prettiest; Joyce Miller, most fantastic, and Mrs. Forrest Hopkins, ugliest.

Emmitt Ebenhack presided over the business meeting. The basketball banquet will be held April 19. It will be a pot luck supper.

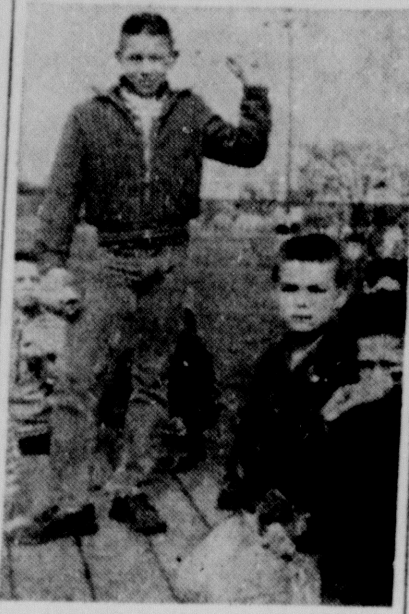

George Mallet, program chairman, introduced the Circleville High School Girl's sextet. Refreshments were served after the entertainment by group hostesses, Mrs. William Barthelmas, Miss Mary Parks, Miss Marjorie Houck and Mrs. Robert Miller.

2nd Train Kills Man

TOLEDO (AP) — Motorist Robert Reed, 37, waited here for a west-bound freight train to pass and then drove onto a railroad crossing today only to be struck and killed by a speeding eastbound freight train.

SHIPPING LANE OPENED—Rock and water are hurled skyward at Campbell River, B. C., as 1,375 tons of explosives blast Ripple Rock, a shipping hazard which has wrecked more than 100 vessels. The twin peaks of Ripple Rock jutted to within nine feet of the surface. Now the narrows are cleared to a depth of 40 feet. (International Soundphoto)

WINNER, GOLDEN EGG — Holding the prize egg at the Kiwanis Easter Egg Hunt held Saturday morning is Dessel Fyffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dessel Fyffe, 405 Ruth Ave. He won $3.

Auto, Gasoline Truck Collide; 6 Persons Die

BAYTOWN, Tex. (AP) — An auto and a gasoline truck collided Monday and were engulfed by a lake of fire. Six persons, including four children, were killed.

A mother and her four children returning from an Easter holiday were in the auto. The truck driver was alone.

"I heard a woman scream, 'Lord, save my baby,'" said Mrs. Mattie Jones, who lives about 100 yards from where the accident occurred near this city.

"The poor people were screaming and crying for their lives, for someone to help them," she said. Police Chief R. W. Montgomery said he had reports an auto moved onto the highway, causing the truck to stop quickly. In halting, he said, the tank-trailer jackknifed into the path of the Taylor car.

The explosion and fire knocked out telephone lines alongside the road. The truck contained 4,600 gallons of gasoline.

Killed were Mrs. Mary Taylor, 33, Liberty, Tex., and her four children, Leland, 14, Mary, 12, Linda, 10, and John, 8; and Milton Heaton, Baytown, the truck driver.

Idaho City's Safety Program Working OK

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — This city of 12,000 persons observed a traffic safety milestone today.

It all stems from the death, on April 8, 1948, of 10-year-old Bertha Louise Little. A car killed her as she dashed across a highway just inside the city limits.

The tragedy shocked Moscow into a traffic safety campaign with an initial goal of 10 years.

It's worked: There hasn't been a single fatal traffic accident inside the city limits since Bertha Little died 10 years ago.

Pickaway Grange Report

The Logan Elm Grange met in regular session with Worthy Master Hoyt Timmons in charge. Scioto Valley Grange was present to provide the program.

The grange obligation was given to Bill Harnal, Norman Wilson and Patty Watson.

Drama Critic Nathan Dies At Age of 76

NEW YORK (AP) — George Jean Nathan, sharp-tongued dean of Broadway drama critics for many years died today at 76.

Nathan, who was an author and an editor of the American Mercury and other magazines, had been ailing in recent years. The cause of death was not immediately announced.

He died in his room at the Royalton Hotel, on the fringe of the Broadway theatrical district. He had lived in the room for 34 years and at the hotel for 54.

Nathan's reviews were widely credited with a profound effect in improving the American theater. He was the author of two score books, most of them devoted to the theater, and several plays.

He was co-editor with the late H. L. Mencken of the Smart Set 299 YEARS IN PRISON—William Stacey, 24, was sentenced to 299 years in prison by a Chicago criminal court jury after he was found guilty in the slaying of Mrs. Darlyne Todd, 18. He stabbed her with a 14-inch knife and then clubbed her with a baseball bat. Here, Stacey clutches his wife, Margaret, 21, from behind bars as she tries to console him.
